Teaching and Training
Pa-Auk Forest Monastery

Compiled by Bhikkhu Moneyya

E-mail: bdea@buddhanet.net
Web site: www.buddhanet.net

Buddha Dharma Education Association Inc.
In Memory of David Volk
Physician, Friend, Teacher, Father
May he come to the end of all suffering and attain perfect peace.
Contents

Bibliographical Abbreviations .................................................. viii
A Note from the Sayadaw .......................................................... ix
Preface ..................................................................................... ix

Introduction ............................................................................... 1
  The Four Noble Truths ......................................................... 1
  The Threefold Training......................................................... 9
  Teaching and Training at Pa-Auk Forest Monastery .......... 12

I. Śīla (Morality) ........................................................................ 15-17
  Stage One: Purification of Virtue
  ● The Fourfold Purification .............................................. 16
  ● The Eight Precepts for Laypersons .............................. 16

II. Samādhi (Concentration) .................................................. 19-26
  Stage Two: Purification of Mind
  ● Samatha for Beginners ................................................. 22
  ● Mindfulness of Breathing .............................................. 23 Developing absorption concentration: the nimiṭṭa, the four jhānas and the light of wisdom
  ● Mastering The Other Samatha Practices ...................... 23
    These include meditation on the thirty-two parts of the body, the ten Kasinas, the four immaterial jhānas, loving-kindness (metta) meditation, etc.
  ● Four-Elements Meditation ........................................... 25
    Developing access concentration; using four-elements meditation to discern rūpa kalāpas (the smallest particles of materiality)

III. Pañña (Wisdom) ............................................................... 27-47
  Stage Three: Purification of View
  ● How to Analyse Materiality ......................................... 29
    Penetrating the illusion of compactness; discerning the four elements in each kalāpa; the eight to ten types of materiality
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section</th>
<th>Title</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr> </thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>How to Analyse Mentality</td>
<td>30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Using jhāna or access concentration to analyse mentality;</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>the eighty-nine types of consciousness and fifty-two associated</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>mental factors</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stage Four</td>
<td>Purification by Overcoming Doubt</td>
<td>32</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Seeing Dependent Origination</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>The twelve links of dependent origination; discerning the</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>causes of materiality and mentality; seeing your past lives</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Understanding Kamma</td>
<td>34</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>How cause and effect operate on a psycho-physical level</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Seeing your Future Lives</td>
<td>36</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Tracing the course of future events up until the time of</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>your future Parinibbāna</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stage Five</td>
<td>Purification by Knowledge and Vision of What is and What is Not Path</td>
<td>37</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>The Practice of Vipassanā</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Discerning the three characteristics of existence:</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>impermanence, suffering and non-self; eleven ways to</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>analyse materiality and mentality</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>The Ten Imperfections</td>
<td>38</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stage Six</td>
<td>Purification by Knowledge and Vision of the Way</td>
<td>39</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>The Sixteen Insight-Knowledges</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Deepening your vipassanā – developing the higher insight-knowledges</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stage Seven</td>
<td>Purification by Knowledge and Vision</td>
<td>42</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Realizing Nibbāna</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>The final five insight-knowledges; removing the ten fetters;</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>the four stages of enlightenment; in praise of arahantship</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Verses from the Buddha – an Ode to Liberation</td>
<td>47</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Conclusion</td>
<td>Getting started with a home-based practice; some practical</td>
<td>49</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>reasons to come to a forest monastery; section includes a</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>recommended reading list</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>The Venerable Pa-Auk Tawya Sayadaw</td>
<td>53</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>A brief biography of the abbot</td>
<td></td>
</tr> </tbody>
</table>
Appendix I: Tables on the Jhānas................................. 57
  Table 1: The Jhāna Factors
  Table 2: The Five Kinds of Jhāna Mastery
  Table 3: Samatha Subjects and their Respective Attainments

Appendix II: Meditation Chart................................................ 59
  An overview of the meditation options at Pa-Auk Forest Monastery

Appendix III: Stages of Purification & the Insight-Knowledges .... 61
  A table listing the seven stages of purification and their respective insight-knowledges

Appendix IV: The Thirty-One Realms of Existence.................. 63
  A table listing the thirty-one realms, with their three major divisions and two sub-divisions — includes explanations

Appendix V: Information for Foreign Meditators...................... 65
  A brief description of the monastery’s basic requirements and services, travel tips, what to bring, etc.

Appendix VI: Rules for Foreign Meditators............................ 73
  Rules and guidelines for foreign residents at the monastery

Appendix VII: Pa-Auk Resource Guide.................................. 83
  A listing of websites, international contact persons and affiliated meditation centres

Index........................................................................................... 87

Back Cover: Daily Schedule
Front Flap: Quotations from Knowing and Seeing Back Flap: Notes on Daily Schedule, Quotations
Bibliographical Abbreviations

A  Āṅguttara Nikāya (Numerical Discourses of the Buddha)
AS  Abhidhammattha Sangaha
     (A Comprehensive Manual of Abhidhamma)
BD  Buddhist Dictionary by Nyanatiloka
D  Dīgha Nikāya (Long Discourses of the Buddha)
    Wisdom Publications; 1987, 1995
Dh  Dhammapada (The Path of Truth)
K&S  Knowing and Seeing (Revised Edition) by the Venerable Pa-Auk Tawya Sayadaw
M  Majjhima Nikāya (Middle Length Discourses of the Mil  Milindapañha (The Questions of King Milinda)
S  Saṁyutta Nikāya (Connected Discourses of the Buddha)
    Wisdom Publications; 2000
T  Theragāthā (Verses of the Elders)
U  Udāna (Inspired Utterances of the Buddha) Vis  Visuddhimagga (The Path of Purification) by Bhadantācariya Buddhaghosa

Note: Source references to the Dīgha Nikāya, Majjhima Nikāya and Saṁyutta Nikāya are based on the more modern listing method used by Wisdom Publications to organize the Nikāyas.
A Note from the Sayadaw

Teaching & Training was written by one of my disciples here at Pa-Auk Forest Monastery. I believe that newcomers will find this book especially helpful.

Pa-Auk Sayadaw¹
(Abbot of Pa-Auk Forest Monastery)

Preface

I started this book in May of 2004, as a six-page letter to my mother, who currently lives in Armidale, Australia. Earlier that same month, she had received a copy of Knowing and Seeing from our abbot, and I was concerned that, without a background in Theravāda Buddhism, she would have difficulty understanding the Sayadaw’s book.

As it turned out, my fears were unfounded. My mother read the book twice and found it extremely helpful. On the other hand, I was not totally satisfied with my letter. In retrospect, I felt it glossed over too many important topics; in addition, it did not address the very real need for clear and practical introductory information for foreigners. As a Westerner, I had become aware of this need during my first visit to Pa-Auk Forest Monastery some five years ago.

I began to revise the letter heavily, detailing the Four Noble Truths in the Introduction and using the threefold training as an outline. I supplemented the text with more than a hundred footnotes, included several appendices dealing specifically with conditions at this monastery and finally added a sixteen-page index.

¹ Sayadaw: a Burmese honorific title meaning “respected teacher”
At this point, I would like to acknowledge my debt of gratitude to the Venerable Pa-Auk Tawya Sayadaw and other senior bhikkhus at Pa-Auk Forest Monastery, for their guidance and instruction in the preparation of this book. The teachings presented here are based primarily on material contained in Knowing and Seeing, with numerous references to the Pāli Texts and their commentaries. For any possible inaccuracy or misrepresentation of this source material, I beg the reader’s forgiveness.

May all who read this book make swift progress on the path to liberation, and may they and my mother experience the peace and bliss of Nibbāna in this lifetime.

Bhikkhu Moneyya

Pa-Auk Forest Monastery
Mawlamyine, Mon State, Myanmar
December 2005
Introduction

_Namo Tassa Bhagavato, Arahato, Sammā-Sambuddhassa_

_Homage to Him, the Blessed One, the Worthy One, the Perfectly Self-Enlightened One_

The Four Noble Truths

The Four Noble Truths are the central teaching of the Buddha, like the hub of a wheel from which the spokes of all his other teachings radiate. The Buddha first expounded these four truths to a group of five ascetics in the Deer Park at Isipatana near Benares, shortly after his great enlightenment under the Bodhi Tree. With that single teaching, some 2500 years ago, the Perfectly Enlightened One set the unsurpassed Wheel of the Dhamma in motion and established his Dispensation.

The Four Noble Truths are:

1. The Noble Truth of Suffering
2. The Noble Truth of the Origin of Suffering
3. The Noble Truth of the Cessation of Suffering
4. The Noble Truth of the Path Leading to the Cessation of Suffering

1. Suffering: “And what, bhikkhus, is the Noble Truth of Suffering? Birth is suffering; ageing is suffering; sickness

---

1 These are the five ascetics who had formerly lived and practised with him during his six years of intense austerities.
2 _Benares_: now called Varanasi, slightly more than 200 kms from the site of the Buddha’s enlightenment in current-day Bodhgaya.
3 _Dhamma_ (with a capital “D”): the teachings or doctrine of the Buddha; Universal Law; Ultimate Truth; The Four Noble Truths.
4 _Bhikkhu_: monk, mendicant; specifically, a member of the community of monks that follows the teachings of the Buddha.
is suffering; death is suffering; sorrow, lamentation, pain, grief and despair are suffering; association with the unpleasant is suffering; separation from the pleasant is suffering; not to get what one wants is suffering; in short, the five aggregates of clinging are suffering.”

The five aggregates\(^2\) are the physical aggregate of materiality and the four mental aggregates of feeling, perception, mental formations\(^3\) and consciousness. These five aggregates comprise all of materiality and mentality throughout the universe. “Clinging” refers to the mental act of grasping – “its function is to not release.”\(^4\) But why are these five aggregates subject to clinging? Due to ignorance, we wrongly identify materiality and mentality as “I,” “me” and “mine.” It is this subtle sense of self that distorts our perceptions and gives rise to clinging and the countless afflictions that follow in its wake.\(^5\)

There are three kinds of suffering\(^6\) described in the First Noble Truth:

\(i.\) The suffering of physical and mental pain – this is the most obvious kind of suffering. It is the suffering that arises with birth, ageing, sickness and death, with sorrow, lamentation, pain, grief and despair.

\(ii.\) The suffering connected with change – this means that, due to clinging, even pleasant physical and mental feelings can become a cause for suffering when they

---

\(^1\) S.56.11 “Dhammacakkappavattana Sutta” (“Dhamma-Wheel Rolling Discourse”)

\(^2\) Five Aggregates (khandas): For description, see BD, pp. 82-86.

\(^3\) Mental formations (saṅkhāra-khanda): the aggregate of mental factors that functions primarily as volition or will

\(^4\) Vis.XVII.51

\(^5\) For a detailed analysis of the mental factors that give rise to clinging, please see p. 32.

\(^6\) Suffering (dukkha): For description, see S.45.165 and BD, p. 54.
cease; in other words, “separation from the pleasant is suffering.”

iii. The suffering inherent within the five aggregates themselves – each of the aggregates is in a state of continuous arising and passing away, never the same from one moment to the next. From the smallest particle and most rudimentary form of consciousness to vast universes and entire realms of existence, all physical and mental phenomena are subject to the same inexorable law of impermanence. This type of suffering is going on in and around us all the time and accounts for the fundamental instability and unsatisfactoriness of all conditioned existence.

2. The Origin of Suffering: “And what, bhikkhus, is the Noble Truth of the Origin of Suffering? It is that craving which leads to rebirth, is bound up with delight and lust, and seeks pleasure here and there, namely: [i] craving for sensual pleasures, [ii] craving for existence and [iii] craving for non-existence.”

i. Craving for sensual pleasures, we yearn for pleasant sights, pleasant sounds, pleasant smells, pleasant tastes, pleasant touches and pleasant thoughts. Wherever and whenever a pleasant thought or pleasant physical sensation arises, we seek it out and attach ourselves to it: in the food we eat, in sex, comfort, wealth, the company of friends and loved ones, and in various forms of entertainment. When we get what we want, the

---

1 S.56.11 “Dhammacakkappavattana Sutta” (“Dhamma-Wheel Rolling Discourse”)
2 Sights, sounds, smells, tastes, touches and thoughts are the objects of the six sense-bases (the eye faculty, ear faculty, nose faculty, tongue faculty, body faculty and mind faculty). The feeling (sensation) that arises from seeing a sight, hearing a sound, tasting a taste, etc. can be either pleasant, unpleasant or neutral.
pleasant physical and mental feelings of the moment become a cause for suffering when they cease. When we do not get what we want, that is also suffering. As we suffer, aversion arises; if we blame others, our aversion grows into resentment and hatred. Thus it is that from craving for sensual pleasures, hatred and conflict arise. With the arising of hatred and conflict, our suffering multiplies.\(^1\)

ii. Craving for existence, we yearn for this life, we yearn for our next life (rebirth in a heavenly realm) and, ultimately, we yearn for immortality.

iii. Craving for non-existence, we yearn for self-annihilation and oblivion.

Like moths lured to the flame of a candle, living beings are drawn irresistibly by these three types of craving toward the objects of their desire; this, in turn, gives rise to clinging and the ongoing cycle of rebirth, called saṁsāra:\(^2\) “Inconceivable, bhikkhus, is the beginning of this saṁsāra. A first point is not known of beings roaming and wandering the round of rebirth, hindered by ignorance and fettered by craving. Which do you think, bhikkhus, is

---

\(^1\) In the “Mahādukkhakkhandha Sutta” (“The Greater Discourse on the Mass of Suffering”) of the Majjhima Nikāya, the Buddha explains: “Again, with sensual pleasures as the cause...kings quarrel with kings, nobles with nobles...householders with householders; mother quarrels with child, child with mother, father with child, child with father; brother quarrels with brother, brother with sister, sister with brother, friend with friend...men take swords and shields and buckle on bows and quivers, and they charge slippery bastions, with arrows and spears flying and swords flashing; and there they are wounded by arrows and spears and splashed with boiling liquids and crushed under heavy weights, and their heads are cut off by swords, whereby they incur death or deadly suffering. Now this too is a danger in the case of sensual pleasures...the cause being simply sensual pleasures.” (M.13.11-13)

\(^2\) Saṁsāra: literally “running on” or “perpetual wandering” more: the stream of tears that you have shed as you roamed and wandered on through this long course, weeping and wailing because of being united with the disagreeable and separated from the agreeable – this or the water in the four great oceans? The stream of tears that you have shed as you roamed and wandered on through this long course...this alone is greater than the water in the four great oceans...For such a long time, bhikkhus, you have experienced suffering, anguish, and disaster, and swelled the cemeteries.”

Furthermore:

“There will come a time when the mighty ocean will dry up, vanish and be no more...There will come a time when the mighty earth will be devoured by fire, perish and be no more. But yet there will be no end to the suffering of beings roaming and wandering this round of rebirth, hindered by ignorance and fettered by craving.”

Such is the nature of this saṁsāra, that countless world-cycles have already arisen and passed away, with no end to the suffering of living beings. Hindered by ignorance and fettered by craving, they roam and wander this ever-unfolding round of rebirth, arising through egg, womb, moisture or spontaneous generation in as many as thirty-one different realms. From the lowest of the hells, to the human realm, to

---

1 S.15.3 “Assu Sutta” (“Tears Discourse”)
2 S.22.99 “Gaddulabaddha Sutta” (“The Leash Discourse”)
3 World-cycle (kappa): an immeasurably long period of time; aeon. Each world-cycle is subdivided into four world periods: (1) world-dissolution (decay and destruction of the universe); (2) continuation of chaos; (3) world-formation (creation of the universe); (4) continuation of the formed world. (Definition of kappa is taken from BD, p. 76.) For greater detail, please see S.15.5, A.IV.156 and A.VII.62.
4 M.12.32 “Mahāsīhanāda Sutta” (“Greater Discourse on the Lion’s Roar”)
5 For a listing of the thirty-one realms, see Appendix IV, p. 63; for greater detail, see M Intro, pp. 46-48 and AS.V.2-7, including Table 5.1.
In most cases, another lifetime of suffering in the four woeful realms—these unhappy realms are the home for most living beings (see footnote 3/p. 45 and S.56.102-131).

2 S.56.11 “Dhammacakkappavattana Sutta” (“Dhamma-Wheel Rolling Discourse”)

3 Nibbāna: literally “blowing out” (as of a candle) or “extinction;” according to the commentaries, “freedom from desire.” Nibbāna is sometimes translated as “the cessation of suffering,” “the cessation of craving,” “extinction of greed, hatred and delusion,” and “final deliverance;” the term is generally left untranslated.

4 Dhp. 85

5 Words in quotation marks come from U.8.3, M.26.18 and Vis.1.159; see also S.43.14.
element:”¹ “Here water, earth, fire and air have no footing; here long and short, coarse and fine, fair and foul, mentality and materiality – all are brought to an end.”²

One who has crossed to the far shore is liberated from samsāra. Such a person is called an “arahant,” a worthy one – one in whom craving and ignorance have been completely destroyed. The Buddha often referred to the attainment of arahantship as the “supreme goal of the holy life.”³ He also called it the “highest bliss.”⁴ Even so, as long as the arahant still has a physical body, he or she is not totally free from suffering. Inevitably, the body ages, gets sick and dies – not even an arahant can stop this process. It is only with the attainment of Parinibbāna⁵ at the arahant’s death, that the physical suffering of having a body comes finally to an end.⁶

Until then, out of innate compassion, the arahant may choose to guide and assist others on the path. One can think of no better example than the Buddha and his two chief disciples, the Venerable Sāriputta and the Venerable Mahā Moggallāna, who were “good friends”⁷ to the many and a refuge for those

¹ The unformed element (asaṅkhata dhātu): Also called the “deathless element,” the unformed element is one of the four ultimate realities. They are: (1) consciousness, (2) mental factors, (3) materiality and (4) the unformed element (Nibbāna). 1, 2 and 3 comprise the formed element (conditioned existence). Please see K&S, p. 33 and Vis.XVI.94. More about Nibbāna in K&S, p. 117, Answer 3.2.
² D.11.85 “Kevaṭṭa Sutta” (“Kevaṭṭa Discourse”)
³ A common phrase used throughout the suttas; the term “holy life” refers to the life of a bhikkhu or bhikkhunī (the female equivalent of a bhikkhu).
⁴ M.75.19 “Māgandiya Sutta” (“Māgandiya Discourse”)
⁵ Parinibbāna: Also called “final Nibbāna,” this term refers to the remainderless cessation of the five aggregates at the death of an arahant.
⁶ For details on arahantship, please see pp. 46-47.
⁷ Good friend (kalyāṇa-mitta): a wise and virtuous person who is concerned for another’s welfare and can guide that person onto the right path (often used as an epithet for one’s meditation teacher); for details, see Vis.III.61-73 who sought release from this frightful round of rebirth and the bondage of suffering. In the spirit of selflessness and non-attachment, the Venerable Sāriputta once said, “I do not love life, I do not love death; I await the time of my Parinibbāna, like a government servant who waits for payday.”

Another name for the Noble Eightfold Path is the “Middle Way.” In his first discourse at Isipatana, the Buddha explained to the five ascetics that “the Middle Way discovered by the Tathāgata avoids both extremes.” The two extremes to which he was referring are the extremes of self-indulgence and self-mortification. One extreme is the search for happiness through the pleasures of the senses, which is “low, vulgar, the way of worldlings, ignoble and unbeneficial.” The other extreme is the search for happiness through torturing the body, which is “painful, ignoble and unbeneficial.” Time and again, the Buddha taught that the pursuit of sensual pleasures could never lead to the end of suffering; but neither could self-mortification. Either way, the final outcome is only more suffering. By avoiding these two extremes, the Noble Eightfold Path “leads to peace, to direct knowledge, to enlightenment, to Nibbāna.”

---

1 T.XVII.2 “Sāriputtattheragāthā” (“Verses of the Elder Sāriputta”)
2 S.56.11 “Dhammacakkappavattana Sutta” (“Dhamma-Wheel Rolling Discourse”)
3 Tathāgata: an appellation for the Buddha, meaning “one who has thus come” or “one who has thus gone”
4 S.56.11 “Dhammacakkappavattana Sutta” (“Dhamma-Wheel Rolling Discourse”)
INTRODUCTION

Just as a wise physician initially diagnoses a disease, then explains the cause, offers a cure and finally prescribes a course of medicine, in the same way, the Buddha diagnoses our disease (the First Noble Truth), explains the cause (the Second Noble Truth), offers a cure (the Third Noble Truth) and prescribes a course of medicine (the Fourth Noble Truth). Praised by the wise as the best of medicines, “just this Noble Eightfold Path” is the balm that quells the fever of craving and brings release from all suffering. ¹ “Having drunk this Dhamma medicine, you will be ageless and beyond death.”²

The Threefold Training

For training purposes, the individual factors of the Noble Eightfold Path are organized into three main areas of practice: (i) sīla, consisting of the training and development in morality; (ii) samādhi, consisting of the training and development in concentration; and (iii) paññā, consisting of the training and development in wisdom (see table below).

| I. Sīla | 1. Right Speech
| Morality  | 2. Right Action
|          | 3. Right Livelihood
| II. Samādhi | 4. Right Effort
| Concentration | 5. Right Mindfulness
|            | 6. Right Concentration
| III. Paññā | 7. Right View
| Wisdom    | 8. Right Intention

¹ “Medicine” simile is taken from Vis.XVI.87; “balm” and “fever” similes from “Mahā Jayamangala Gāthā” (“Great Verses of Joyous Victory”); quotation is from S.56.11.
² Mil.II.V “Anumānapañho” (“A Question Solved by Inference”)
Prior to undertaking this threefold training, some initial reading and study may be helpful – at least enough to acquire a basic understanding of the Four Noble Truths. This is Right View at its most rudimentary level. Without such an understanding, one might find it difficult to gain confidence in the teaching, and there would be little incentive to undertake and sustain the training. One might also undertake the training for the wrong reason or inadvertently stray from the path.

The training itself is a process of gradual purification, which requires patience, persistence and dedication. As one progresses on the path – from sīla through samādhi to paññā – and begins to see the benefits in his or her daily life, greater confidence in the teaching will naturally arise:

“Such is sīla [morality]; such is samādhi [concentration]; such is paññā [wisdom]. When sīla is fully developed, samādhi is of great fruit and benefit; when samādhi is fully developed, paññā is of great fruit and benefit.”

I. Sīla, the first of the three trainings, encompasses all aspects of moral or virtuous conduct. Its practice facilitates the development of samādhi by putting a check on unwholesome behaviour that might disturb the mind or create conflict with others.

II. Samādhi, the second training, is the cultivation of deep, uninterrupted concentration, which arises from fixing the mind on a single object during the practice of samatha (serenity) meditation. Samādhi suppresses the hindrances, which, by their very nature, are opposed to concentration – thus, the mind becomes calm, penetrating and powerful, a prerequisite for the development of wisdom.

1 Please see “Recommended Reading List,” p. 50.
2 D.16.2.4 “Mahāparinibbāna Sutta” (“Great Parinibbāna Discourse”)
3 Hindrances (nīvaraṇa): a five-fold classification of mental defilements: (1) sensual desire; (2) ill-will; (3) sloth and torpor; (4) restlessness and remorse; and (5) sceptical doubt; see K&S, pp. 63-65.
III. Paññā, the third training, is the cultivation of wisdom through the practice of vipassana (insight) meditation. Whereas samādhi suppresses the hindrances, paññā destroys them. “Vipassanā” literally means “clearly seeing” or “insight;” it is defined as the experiential knowledge that arises from directly seeing the three characteristics in each of the five aggregates. These three characteristics are:

1. Impermanence (anicca) – as soon as the five aggregates arise, they pass away.
2. Suffering (dukkha) – the five aggregates are always oppressed by arising and passing away.
3. Non-Self (anattā) – the five aggregates are without a self; nor is there any enduring substance or essence, either inside or outside the aggregates, that could be called a self.

In his second discourse, the Buddha discussed these three characteristics with the same five bhikkhus as before:

“What do you think, bhikkhus: Is form permanent or impermanent? – Impermanent, Venerable Sir. – Are feeling, perception, mental formations and consciousness permanent or impermanent? – Impermanent, Venerable Sir. – But that which is impermanent, is it suffering or happiness? – Suffering, Venerable Sir. – But of that which is impermanent, suffering and subject to change, could it rightly be said, ‘This belongs to me, this I am, this is my self?’ – No, Venerable Sir…Seeing thus, bhikkhus, the noble disciple is disenchanted with materiality, disenchanted with feeling, disenchanted with perception, disenchanted with mental formations, disenchanted with consciousness. Experiencing disenchantment, he becomes dispassionate. Through dispassion [his mind] is liberated.”

---

1 Vis.XX.45
2 S.22.59 “Anattalakkhaṇa Sutta” (“Non-self Characteristic Discourse”) “Liberation” here refers to the realization of Nibbāna by arahant fruition knowledge. With that attainment, one “fully awakens to the Four Noble Truths as they really are:” to suffering, to the origin of suffering, to the cessation of suffering, and to the path leading to the cessation of suffering. This is the great enlightenment that the Buddha experienced under the Bodhi Tree some 2500 years ago. It is a state of supreme peace and happiness, the highest goal to which mankind can aspire. To achieve this state is to receive one’s inheritance from the Buddha and to become a benefactor and protector of the Dispensation, “so that the pure Teaching may long endure, that it may be for the welfare and happiness of the multitude, out of compassion for the world, for the welfare and happiness of devas and human beings.”

Teaching & Training at Pa-Auk Forest Monastery

The system of meditation taught at Pa-Auk Forest Monastery is based on the Tipiṭaka (The Three Baskets, or main divisions, of the Pāli Canon) and its commentaries. The Tipiṭaka includes the Vinaya Piṭaka (the Basket of Discipline), the Sutta Piṭaka (the Basket of Discourses) and the Abhidhamma Piṭaka (the Basket of Higher Dhamma). The Pāli Canon dates back to the time when Pāli was a spoken language, and is thought to contain the original teachings of the Buddha.

---

1 Fruition knowledge (phala ānīka): the second of the two insight-knowledges that form the core of the enlightenment experience; for more on these two insight-knowledges, please see pp. 42-44.
2 S.56.5 “Paṭhamasamaṇaṇaṇaṃ brāhmaṇa Sutta” (“Ascetics and Brahmans Discourse”)
3 Devas: heavenly beings
4 D.16.3.50 “Mahāparinibbāna Sutta” (“Great Parinibbāna Discourse”)
5 Sutta: discourse on the Dhamma, given by the Buddha or one of his close disciples
INTRODUCTION

For clarity, the subject matter in this book has been organized into an outline format, using the three trainings of sīla (morality), samādhi (concentration) and paññā (wisdom) as its main headings. The three trainings are then further subdivided into the seven stages of purification, originally described in the “Rathavinīta Sutta” (“Relay Chariots Discourse”) of the Majjhima Nikāya and later expounded in the Visuddhimagga (The Path of Purification), a widely respected commentary, compiled by Bhadantacariya Buddhaghosa around AD 400.

The seven stages of purification provide a step-by-step formula for systematically purifying one’s body (physical actions), speech and mind of defilements in order to realize Nibbāna in this lifetime (see table below).

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>The Seven Stages of Purification</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Sīla</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1. Purification of Virtue</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Samādhi</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2. Purification of Mind</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Paññā</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3. Purification of View</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4. Purification by Overcoming Doubt</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5. Purification by Knowledge and Vision of What is and What is Not Path</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6. Purification by Knowledge and Vision of the Way</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7. Purification by Knowledge and Vision</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Sīla (Morality)

Sīla consists of Right Speech, Right Action and Right Livelihood. These three path factors are the basis for all good conduct, as well as the foundation of all Buddhist training. In describing the benefits of sīla to his attendant, the Venerable Ānanda, the Buddha states:

“So you see, Ānanda, good conduct [sīla] has freedom from remorse as object and profit; freedom from remorse has joy; joy has rapture; rapture has calm; calm has happiness; happiness has concentration; concentration has seeing things as they really are; seeing things as they really are has disenchantment and dispassion; disenchantment and dispassion have knowing and seeing as their object and profit. So you see, Ānanda, good conduct leads gradually up to the summit.”¹

¹ A.X.I.1 “Kimmatthiya Sutta” (“What is the Object Discourse”) Stage One Purification of Virtue

Purification through Wholesome Speech and Action

Observance of sīla can be divided into four main areas of practice, referred to in the Visuddhimagga as the “fourfold purification.” These four areas of practice are:

1. Restraint with regard to conduct (Right Speech and Right Action) – the two hundred and twenty-seven rules of the Disciplinary Code (Pātimokkha) for Theravāda monks; the 10 precepts and 75 Sekhiya (training) rules for novices; the eight or ten precepts for Theravāda nuns; and the five or eight precepts for laypersons.

2. Restraint of the sense faculties – of the eye, ear, nose, tongue, body and mind.

3. Purification of livelihood (Right Livelihood) – livelihood that accords with the precepts.

4. Reflection on (and moderation in) the use of the four requisites – food, shelter, clothing and medicine.

At Pa-Auk Forest Monastery, all residents are required to observe the monastery rules, listed in Appendix VI, on page 73. These rules support a lifestyle that encourages the development of concentration through the observance of appropriate sīla for both monastics and laity. As a minimum, all residents must observe the eight precepts for laypersons, listed below:

1. To refrain from the destruction of life (this includes insects).
2. To refrain from taking what is not given.
3. To refrain from unchastity (any kind of sexual activity).
4. To refrain from untrue speech.
5. To refrain from the use of wines, liquors and other intoxicants (including recreational drugs).

6. To refrain from eating after midday.

7. To refrain from dancing, singing, music and shows (all forms of entertainment), and from bodily adornment – the use of jewellery, perfumes and cosmetics.

8. To refrain from the use of high and large (luxurious) beds.

For monks, novices and ten-precept nuns, rule seven becomes two separate rules; rule eight becomes rule nine; and a tenth rule is added, prohibiting the handling, use, or possession of gold and silver (in effect, all forms of money, including cash, credit cards, cheques, jewellery and other forms of exchange).

Reflecting on the various benefits of purification through the practice of sīla, the Visuddhimagga comments:

“Dare anyone a limit place
On benefits that virtue brings…?
No balm of yellow sandalwood…
Or soft effulgence of moonbeams,
Can here avail to calm and soothe Men’s fevers in this world; whereas This noble, this supremely cool,
Well-guarded virtue quells the flame…
Where can such another stair be found That climbs, as virtue does, to heaven?
Or yet another door that gives Unto the city of Nibbāna?
Shine as they might, there are no kings Adorned with jewellery and pearls

---

1 For greater detail on rule ten, please see Appendix V (under “Monastics and Money” and “Visa Application/Extension”), plus Appendix VI (under “Theravāda Monks and Novices Only”).
That shine as does a man restrained,
Adorned with virtue’s ornament…
From this brief sketch it may be known How virtue brings reward, and how This root of all good qualities Rob of its power every fault.”

\[1\] Vis.1.24
Two

Samādhi (Concentration)

Samādhi consists of Right Effort, Right Mindfulness and Right Concentration.

Right Effort is of four kinds:
1. The effort to prevent unwholesome\(^1\) states of mind from arising.
2. The effort to remove unwholesome states of mind that have already arisen.
3. The effort to arouse wholesome\(^2\) states of mind that have not yet arisen.
4. The effort to increase wholesome states of mind that have already arisen.

Right Mindfulness is also of four kinds:
1. Mindfulness\(^3\) of the body – in-and-outbreathing, the four elements, the thirty-two parts of the body,\(^4\) bodily postures (sitting, standing, walking, lying), etc.

---

\(^1\) Unwholesome (akusala): the opposite of “wholesome” (see below)

\(^2\) Wholesome (kusala): healthy, positive, wise, generous, loving, compassionate (in regard to both oneself and others); in accord with the precepts; “profitable, salutary, morally good…blameless, productive of favourable kamma-result, skilful…in psychological terms…all those kammic volitions…which are accompanied by non-greed, non-hatred and non-delusion.” (Quoted text is from BD, p. 88.)

\(^3\) Mindfulness (sati): awareness applied closely to an object or objects; it is characterised as “not floating away ” (see K&S, p. 53 and AS.II.5).

\(^4\) For a description of the thirty-two parts practice, please see p. 24.
II. SAMAĀDHI (CONCENTRATION)

3. Mindfulness of the mind – any state of consciousness: wholesome, unwholesome or indeterminate.

4. Mindfulness of mind-objects – a range of physical and mental phenomena, including the Four Noble Truths, the five aggregates, the five hindrances, etc.

Right Concentration is defined as the four jhānas\(^1\) (absorption states). The following description of Right Concentration comes from the “Mahāsatipaṭṭhāna Sutta” (“The Greater Discourse on the Foundations of Mindfulness”) of the Dīgha Nikāya:

“And what, bhikkhus, is Right Concentration? Here, quite secluded from sensual pleasures, secluded from unwholesome mental states, a bhikkhu enters upon and abides in the first jhāna, which is accompanied by initial application [of the mind] and sustained application [of the mind], with rapture and happiness born of seclusion. With the subsiding of initial application and sustained application, he enters upon and abides in the second jhāna, which is accompanied by tranquillity and one-pointedness of mind, with rapture and happiness born of concentration. With the fading away of rapture, he enters upon and abides in the third jhāna, which is accompanied by equanimity, mindfulness and clear awareness; thus he experiences in his person that feeling of happiness of which the noble ones\(^2\) say, ‘Happy is he who dwells in

---

\(^1\) Jhāna/four jhānas (also known as the four fine-material jhānas): concentration, during which there is a complete, though temporary, suspension of fivefold sense activity (seeing, hearing, smelling, tasting and touching) and of the five hindrances; the state of consciousness, however, is one of full alertness and lucidity. (Definition of jhāna is taken from BD, P. 70.)

\(^2\) Noble one (ariya-puggala): an individual who has attained any one of the four stages of enlightenment (described on pp. 45-46).
II. SAMĀDHI (CONCENTRATION)

equanimity and mindfulness.’ With the abandoning of pleasure and pain, and the disappearance of previous joy and sorrow, he enters upon and abides in the fourth jhāna, which is beyond pleasure and pain, and is purified by equanimity and mindfulness. This is called Right Concentration.1

In addition to the four jhānas, the Visuddhimagga describes another type of concentration called “access” concentration.2 Access concentration is the state of deep concentration that precedes each of the four jhānas. In access concentration, however, the jhāna factors3 are not as distinct as in the actual jhāna, and the mind is still subject to occasional distraction. Both types of concentration are attained by practising one of the forty samatha meditation subjects4 taught by the Buddha. Some of these subjects lead only to the lower jhānas; some lead to all four jhānas; and some lead only to access concentration.

1 D.22.21 “Mahāsatipaṭṭhāna Sutta” (“The Greater Discourse on the Foundations of Mindfulness”); an expanded version of the same passage can be found in the “Kāyagatāsati Sutta” (“Mindfulness of the Body Discourse”) of the Majjhima Nikāya, M.119.18-21.
2 For details on access concentration, see Vis.III.5-6, 15 and Vis.IV.32-33.
3 Jhāna factors: specific mental factors associated with each of the four jhānas. These factors include: initial application (of the mind), sustained application (of the mind), rapture, happiness, one-pointedness (of mind) and equanimity. For a listing of these jhāna factors and their respective jhānas, please see Appendix I, Table 1, p. 57; for greater detail, see K&S, p. 55-58.
4 For a description of the forty samatha meditation subjects, please see AS.IX.6-12, including Table 9.1 or Vis.III.104-105; for greater detail, see Vis, Chapters IV-XI.
Meditators at Pa-Auk are free to begin their meditation practice with the samatha subject of their choice. In most cases, however, they are encouraged to choose between two initial samatha practices: mindfulness of breathing (ānāpānasati) and four-elements meditation.

Mindfulness of breathing is the practice commonly recommended to beginners here for attaining and mastering each of the four jhānas. Four-elements meditation is recommended to meditators who wish to take a more direct route to the practice of vipassanā, without first developing a foundation in jhāna. Meditators who begin with four-elements, however, have the option of following up with other samatha practices before proceeding on to vipassanā.

To attain the levels of concentration required for mental absorption, continuous practice is necessary. Meditators at Pa-Auk spend an average of seven and a half hours per day in sitting meditation. Formal group sittings are held in separate meditation halls in both the men’s and women’s areas of the monastery. Between sittings, walking meditation is advised. To promote the development of concentration, meditators are encouraged to keep conversation to a minimum. Regular interviews with Pa-Auk meditation teachers are also an important part of the practice.

---

1 For a listing of the five kinds of jhāna mastery, please see Appendix I, Table 2, p. 57; for a detailed description, see K&S, pp.55-58.
2 This schedule includes two fifteen-minute chanting sessions – one at 4:00 am, the other at 6:00 pm. For specific sitting times, please check the daily schedule on the back cover.
Mindfulness of Breathing (ānāpānasati)

This samatha subject can be developed up to all four jhānas. Mastery of the four ānāpāna jhānas greatly facilitates the development of all other samatha practices, as well as the subsequent analysis of materiality and mentality. To practise mindfulness of breathing, you focus on the breath at the point where it touches either the nostrils or upper lip. Try to maintain this awareness as you breathe in and out naturally. Every time your mind wanders, you must bring it back to the breath.

As concentration deepens, you will begin to see light. When this light forms an image, it is called a nimitta. At first the nimitta may appear dull and opaque or disappear completely if you try to focus on it. As it becomes stable, it will naturally merge with the breath.

Now you can change your focus to the nimitta. With continued mindfulness, you will be able to concentrate on the nimitta for one, two, three or more hours. Soon it will become clear and bright. This is because a concentrated mind produces light – the Buddha calls this light “the light of wisdom.”

As you progress from access concentration into absorption – through each of the four jhānas – this light will become brighter and brighter. It is this light that allows you to discern the five aggregates and practise vipassanā in the later stages of meditation.

Mastering the Other Samatha Practices

Having mastered the four ānāpāna jhānas, you may now continue with the remaining samatha subjects. If one subject, such as mindfulness of breathing, is fully mastered, the other subjects can be mastered easily, even as quickly as one subject per day. These subjects include:

1 Nimitta: mark, sign, image, object, cause, condition; in this context, a sign of concentration. Due to differences in perception, the ānāpāna nimitta appears differently to different people. For details, please see K&S, pp. 47-49 and p. 62, Answer 1.4; see also BD, p. 107.
II. SAMĀDHĪ (CONCENTRATION)

- The Thirty-Two Parts of the Body\(^1\) – seeing the organs and other constituents of your body; seeing the thirty-two parts of the body in other beings.
- The Ten Kasiṇas – meditation subjects consisting of certain material qualities, such as earth, water, fire, air, light, space and various colours.
- The Four Immaterial Jhānas – boundless space, boundless consciousness, nothingness and neither-perception-nor-non-perception.
- The Four Divine Abodes\(^2\) – loving-kindness meditation (radiating loving-kindness to all living beings); similar meditations in compassion, appreciative joy and equanimity.
- The Four Protective Meditations – loving-kindness meditation (for overcoming anger), recollection of the Buddha (for developing faith), loathsomeness meditation\(^3\) (for overcoming sensual desire) and recollection of death (for developing a sense of urgency).

Note: For a listing of these samatha subjects and their respective attainments, please see Appendix I, Table 3, page 58.

After completing your initial samatha practice, the general progression at Pa-Auk is thirty-two parts of the body, followed by skeleton meditation (one of the thirty-two parts of the

---

\(^1\) The Thirty-two Parts of the Body: This practice is listed as a single samatha subject. For details, please see K&S, pp. 67-69.

\(^2\) The Four Divine Abodes (brahmavihārās): Loving-kindness (mettā), compassion (karuṇā) and appreciative joy (muditā) are each developed up to the third jhāna; equanimity (upekkhā) can be developed and practiced only in the fourth jhāna.

\(^3\) Loathsomeness meditation (asubha bhāvanā): meditation on the mental image of a bloated or decomposing corpse; for a description of this meditation practice, please see Vis, Chapter VI.
body) and white kasi. These, in turn, are followed by the remaining samatha subjects listed above.

Whether you wish to complete all, some or none of these samatha practices is a matter of personal preference. Mastery of these practices provides a solid base for the cultivation of insight by strengthening your concentration, intensifying your light of wisdom and assisting in the development of other positive qualities, such as faith, energy, tranquillity, compassion, dispassion and equanimity. With a solid base of samatha practices, you will be able to make swift progress in your practice of vipassanā. When you feel you have mastered a sufficient number of samatha practices and are ready to make the transition to vipassanā, you may begin the practice of four-elements meditation.

Four-Elements Meditation

This samatha subject can be developed only up to access concentration. It has, however, the distinction of being the gateway to vipassanā, since it is the only one of the forty samatha practices that can be used to analyse materiality. In this practice, you focus on the four elements that compose your physical body: earth, water, fire and wind. Each of these four elements has certain physical characteristics, which you must learn to recognise. Altogether, there are twelve characteristics:

1. Earth Element – hardness, roughness, heaviness, softness, smoothness, lightness
2. Water Element – flowing, cohesion
3. Fire Element – heat, coldness
4. Wind Element – supporting, pushing

---

1 According to the Sayadaw, strong concentration is one of the key factors to success, especially in the later stages of meditation.
Your practice begins by discerning each of the twelve characteristics individually, starting with pushing, followed by hardness, roughness, heaviness, and so on. Eventually, you will be able to discern all twelve characteristics together. At that point, you will see only elements, not a person or self. As concentration develops, you will begin to see a smoky grey light.¹ If you continue to concentrate on the four elements, that light will become whiter and brighter until your entire body appears as if it were a solid block of transparent ice. Maintaining your concentration on the four elements within that “block of ice,” you will see it begin to sparkle and emit light. When you can concentrate on the four elements in that sparkling form for at least half an hour, you have reached access concentration.

With that light, you will be able to penetrate and break down the solid mass of the body into trillions of infinitesimal particles, called “rūpa kalāpas.”² You will see these particles arise and pass away with tremendous speed. This completes the development of four-elements meditation as a samatha practice. You may now proceed to the next stage of meditation, the analysis of materiality, by analysing these rūpa kalāpas; or, if you have not already done so and would prefer to develop absorption concentration at this time, you may continue with other samatha practices before returning to four-elements meditation and progressing on to the analysis of materiality and mentality.

Note: For an overview of these meditation options, please see Appendix II, page 59.

¹ Meditators who have developed strong jhāna concentration will pass through this stage very quickly.
² Rūpa kalāpa: literally “materiality-cluster”
Three

Paññā (Wisdom)

Paññā consists of Right View and Right Intention.

- Right View is the correct understanding of the Four Noble Truths: suffering, the origin of suffering, the cessation of suffering and the path leading to the cessation of suffering.

- Right Intention is the correct application of the mind to gaining Right View.

To develop paññā (wisdom) means to replace wrong view\(^1\) with Right View, and wrong intention with Right Intention. One with wrong view “is like a blind man who wanders about the earth, encountering now right and now wrong paths, now heights and now hollows, now even and now uneven ground…Hence this is said:

“As one born blind, who gropes along Without assistance from a guide, Chooses a road that may be right
At one time, at another wrong,
So while the foolish man pursues
The round of births without a guide,
Now to do merit he may choose
And now demerit in such plight.

\(^{1}\) For an explanation of wrong view, please see K&S, pp. 285-288, Answers 7.9-7.10.
But when the Law\(^1\) he comes to know
And penetrates the Truths\(^2\) beside,
Then ignorance is put to flight
At last, and he in peace may go.”\(^3\)

---

\(^1\) Law: Dhamma; teaching of the Buddha; Ultimate Truth
\(^2\) Truths: the Four Noble Truths
\(^3\) Vis.XVII.118-119
How to Analyse Materiality

Because rūpa kalāpas arise and pass away so quickly, you may find at first that they are difficult to analyse. They appear as extremely small particles, with a definite size and shape, but that is because you have not yet completely penetrated the illusion of “compactness.” To penetrate that illusion, you should ignore the arising and passing away of kalāpas and focus solely on the four elements in each kalāpa. Once you can discern the four elements, you will be able to analyse additional types of materiality.

Every kalāpa comprises at least eight types of materiality:

1. Earth Element
2. Water Element
3. Fire Element
4. Wind Element
5. Colour
6. Odour
7. Flavour
8. Nutritive Essence

Some kalāpas include a ninth type of materiality: the (9) life-faculty element. And some include a tenth (the previous nine, plus one of the following three): a (10-i) transparent-element; a (10-ii) heart-element; or a (10-iii) male or female

---

1 For an explanation of compactness, please see K&S, p. 60, Answer 1.3 and p.153.
2 Distinctive transparent-elements can be found in each of the five physical sense organs: eye, ear, nose, tongue and body. For a detailed description of the ten types of materiality, please see K&S, Chapter 4.
3 Kalāpas containing a heart-element are found only in the heart, the sixth sense organ, which is the base for the mind faculty (mentality).
These eight to ten types of materiality in every kalāpa are the primary constituent qualities of matter and cannot be broken down any further. They are what define ultimate materiality within your body.

After completing the analysis of materiality within your body, you follow the same procedure for external materiality – other living beings and inanimate objects.

How to Analyse Mentality

To discern mentality, you begin by entering the first jhāna, or access concentration if four-elements meditation has been your exclusive samatha practice. Emerging from jhāna (or access concentration), you then analyse the jhāna factors associated with that state of concentration – in this case, the five jhāna factors associated with first-jhāna consciousness. The same procedure is repeated with the second, third and fourth jhānas.

On investigation, you will see that the mind is nothing more than a succession of consciousnesses that arise and pass away with even greater rapidity than kalāpas. Every consciousness arises with a minimum of seven to a maximum of thirty-four associated mental factors.

Once you have discerned the various types of consciousness and associated mental factors that comprise each of the four jhānas (or access concentration), you need to discern other kinds of consciousness and their associated mental factors, for example, those consciousnesses that arise upon seeing an object, hearing a sound, etc.

With practice, you will be able to discern and analyse up to eighty-nine different types of consciousness, according to your

---

1 Kalāpas containing a sex-element are found in all six sense organs (eye, ear, nose, tongue, body and mind).
2 For a listing of the four jhānas and their associated jhāna factors, please see Appendix I, Table 1, p. 57
3 The 7-34 associated mental factors always include the three mental aggregates of feeling, perception, and mental formations.
level of development in meditation, and fifty-two associated mental factors. Each type of consciousness falls into one of three broad categories: wholesome, unwholesome and indeterminate. All these various types of consciousness, plus the fifty-two associated mental factors, are what define ultimate mentality.

After completing this analysis of mentality in regard to your own mind, you follow the same procedure to analyse the minds of other living beings. You should repeat these two analyses again and again, alternating between internal and external mentality, as you gradually extend your range of perception throughout the infinite universe.

Lastly, you analyse materiality and mentality together, as before, both internally and externally, etc. At this stage, you will not see any beings or persons existing anywhere, only ultimate materiality and ultimate mentality (thus the purification of view). To know and see materiality and mentality in this manner is to know and see the five aggregates of clinging; and to know and see the five aggregates of clinging is to know and see the First Noble Truth – the Noble Truth of Suffering.

---

1 This procedure does not enable you to discern the minds of other beings individually, only in a general way. The ability to penetrate and know the minds of others is one of the five mundane higher powers (referred to as “direct knowledges” in the Visuddhimagga). For an explanation of the higher powers, see Vis, Chapters XII-XIII.
Stage Four Purification by Overcoming Doubt

Seeing Dependent Origination

Before you can realize Nibbāna, the Third Noble Truth, you need to know and see not only the First Noble Truth, but also the Second Noble Truth – the Noble Truth of the Origin of Suffering. In the “Tiṭṭhāyatana Sutta” (“Sectarian Doctrines Discourse”) of the Āvuttara Nikāya, the Buddha explains the Second Noble Truth as follows:

“And what, bhikkhus, is the Noble Truth of the Origin of Suffering?

(1) With ignorance as condition,
(2) Volitional formations¹ [come to be];
(3) With volitional formations as condition, consciousness;
(4) With consciousness as condition, mentality-materiality;
(5) With mentality-materiality as condition, the six sense-bases [eye, ear, nose, tongue, body and mind];
(6) With the six sense-bases as condition, contact;
(7) With contact as condition, feeling;
(8) With feeling as condition, craving;
(9) With craving as condition, clinging;
(10) With clinging as condition, becoming;
(11) With becoming as condition, birth;
(12) With birth as condition, ageing and death, sorrow, lamentation, pain, grief and despair come to be.

¹ Volitional formations (saṅkhārā): The second link in the “chain” of dependent origination, “volitional formations” refers to “kamma,” the wholesome and unwholesome volitional actions of body, speech and mind that condition the future states of living beings. For an explanation of kamma, please see BD, p. 77; for greater detail, see AS.V.18-33.
Such is the origin of this entire mass of suffering. This, bhikkhus, is called the Noble Truth of the Origin of Suffering."

The twelve underlined links listed above form the cycle of dependent origination, a teaching that explains how materiality and mentality condition one another over the three periods of time: past, present and future. The Buddha considered dependent origination to be one of his pivotal teachings, without which it is impossible to arrive at a correct understanding of the Four Noble Truths: “One who sees dependent origination sees the Dhamma, and one who sees the Dhamma sees dependent origination.”

Through a meditation practice that utilises the framework of dependent origination as its guiding principle, you will be able to analyse the workings of cause and effect on a psycho-physical level. This analysis is not the result of psychic power; rather, it is the result of the power of insight-knowledge, which arises from your previous analysis of ultimate materiality and ultimate mentality. Coupled with strong concentration, this insight-knowledge is able to know and see each of the individual components of dependent origination, as well as the cause-and-effect relationships between them. This analysis will show you exactly how and why suffering is the inevitable result of ignorance and craving.

To begin the practice of seeing dependent origination, you choose a moment in your recent past that allows you to analyse the previous materiality and mentality of your own body and mind. Starting from that point, you trace the causes and conditions back in time, link after link, to your prenatal stage and then to the first moment of consciousness at your conception. With the strength of concentration that you have developed through the practice of samatha, you will then be able to go back and discern the last moments of consciousness at the time of death in your previous life.

1 A.III.61 “Tiṭṭāyatana Sutta” (“Sectarian Doctrines Discourse”)
2 M.28.28 “Mahāhatthipadopama Sutta” (“The Greater Discourse on the Simile of the Elephant’s Footprint”)

At that point, you will clearly see how your human birth and its circumstances are the direct result of past kamma that matured at the time of death in your previous life. Following this same procedure, you then discern the conditions that led to your previous rebirth, and to the one before that, continuing in the same manner for as many previous lives as you can.

As you continue to practise in this manner, certain dominant patterns will begin to emerge. You will come to see:

- How the actions that you consciously perform (your kamma) are driven by ignorance and craving.
- How you may experience the result of a particular action in one of three time periods: in the same life that the action is performed; in the following life; or in a subsequent future life.
- How wholesome thoughts, speech and physical actions can produce only wholesome (pleasant) results.
- How unwholesome thoughts, speech and physical actions can produce only unwholesome (painful) results.
- How the kammic force of a particular action can carry over for many lifetimes (even aeons) until it finally produces its wholesome or unwholesome result.

Now you can understand how avoiding unwholesome kamma can prevent future suffering; also, how performing wholesome kamma can lead to a happier life and even rebirth in a higher realm. However, even if you were to observe perfect sīla for a thousand lifetimes, perform numerous good

---

1 Wholesome: Please see footnote 2/p. 19.
2 Unwholesome: Please see footnote 1/p. 19.
works and cultivate the various jhānas, this alone would not be enough to destroy ignorance and craving – the root of suffering. Only paññā has the power to do this – and to develop paññā, you must practise vipassanā. When your practice of vipassanā fully matures and you attain arahantship, all your volitional actions of body, speech and mind will become totally pure and cease to produce any new kamma. This attainment leads to the remainderless cessation of the five aggregates at the time of death, final release from the round of rebirth and the cessation of all suffering:

“And what, bhikkhus, is the Noble Truth of the Cessation of Suffering?

(1) With the cessation of ignorance,
(2) Volitional formations cease;
(3) With the cessation of volitional formations, consciousness ceases;
(4) With the cessation of consciousness, mentality-materiality ceases;
(5) With the cessation of mentality-materiality, the six sense-bases cease;
(6) With the cessation of the six sense-bases, contact ceases;
(7) With the cessation of contact, feeling ceases;
(8) With the cessation of feeling, craving ceases;

1 Jhāna states can temporarily suppress all mental defilements, even ignorance and craving, but these defilements remain as latent tendencies and become operative again as soon as one emerges from jhāna. Mastery of the jhānas can lead to rebirth in the higher fine-material or immaterial realms; however, even rebirth in such blissful realms is no guarantee that in some future life one may not fall back into lower realms of intense suffering. Once one falls into one of these “woeful realms,” in most cases it is extremely difficult to escape (see footnote 3/p. 45). For a listing of the thirty-one realms, see Appendix IV, p. 63; for greater detail, see AS.V.2-7, including Table 5.1.
III. PAÑṆĀ (WISDOM)

(9) With the cessation of craving, clinging ceases;
(10) With the cessation of clinging, becoming ceases;
(11) With the cessation of becoming, birth ceases;
(12) With the cessation of birth, ageing and death, sorrow, lamentation, pain, grief and despair cease.

Such is the cessation of this entire mass of suffering. This, bhikkhus, is called the Noble Truth of the Cessation of Suffering.”¹

Even before you attain arahantship, you can use the analysis of materiality and mentality to trace the course of future events leading up through the cessation of ignorance, to the time of your final Nibbāna. This is accomplished by discerning your future lives in the same way that you discerned your past lives. You should continue to discern your future lives up until you see the five aggregates cease without remainder. Depending on various wholesome causes and conditions that you have generated through your practice of samatha-vipassanā, it is possible that your future Parinibbāna will occur either in this life, your next life, or in one of your subsequent future lives.²

At this point, you have completed the analysis of both past and future lives. You now understand that materiality and mentality are simply the effect of past causes and will, in turn, become the cause of future effects – that besides these causes and effects, there is neither a person nor a living being. Having purified your mind of doubt about the reality of past and future existences, and the workings of kamma, you may now proceed to the next stage of purification and undertake the practice of vipassanā.

¹ A.III.61 “Tīṭṭhāyatana Sutta” (“Sectarian Doctrines Discourse”)
² However, if you stop meditating or engage in some unwholesome activity, the conditions will have changed, in which case the future results will also be different.
Stage Five
Purification by Knowledge and Vision of What is and What is Not Path

The Practice of Vipassanā

The formal practice of vipassanā begins by discerning the three characteristics of impermanence, suffering and non-self in each of the following forty-nine categories of formations:

- Two categories – materiality and mentality
- Five categories – the five aggregates
- Twelve categories – the twelve factors of dependent origination
- Twelve categories – the six sense-bases (eye faculty, ear faculty, nose faculty, etc.) plus the six sense-objects (sights, sounds, smells, etc.)
- Eighteen categories – the six sense-bases, the six sense-objects and their respective six consciousnesses (eye-consciousness, ear-consciousness, nose-consciousness, etc.)

In the “Pheṇapiṇḍīpama Sutta” (“Lump of Foam Discourse”) of the Saṁyutta Nikāya, the Buddha explains how to examine the five aggregates:

“So too, bhikkhus, whatever kind of materiality there is…whatever kind of feeling…perception…mental formations…[or] consciousness…whether past, future or present, internal or external, gross or subtle, inferior or superior, far or near, a bhikkhu sees it, contemplates it and carefully investigates it.”

---

1 Formations: all things that are formed and conditioned; all aspects of materiality and mentality; the five aggregates
2 S.22.95 “Pheṇapiṇḍīpama Sutta” (“Lump of Foam Discourse”)
This is the standard you should apply in your practice vipassanā, as you “carefully investigate” each category of formations. For example, you should examine the two categories of materiality and mentality, not only in your present life, but also in your past and future lives, extending your range of perception throughout the infinite universe.¹

When you have completed a thorough examination of all forty-nine categories, you will clearly see how impermanence, suffering and non-self pervade all aspects of materiality and mentality, including their causes. Then you will understand what the Buddha meant when he referred to the three characteristics as “a firm condition, an immutable fact and a fixed law.”²

It is at this stage, as you apply these methods and your insight becomes stronger, that the ten imperfections of insight may arise. The ten imperfections are:

1. Powerful Light  6. Confidence
2. Insight         7. Effort
4. Tranquillity   9. Equanimity
5. Bliss           10. Attachment

With the exception of attachment, these states are not imperfections in themselves; however, when they arise, there is a temptation for the meditator to think, “Such [powerful light, insight, joy, etc.] never arose in me before. I have surely reached the path, reached fruition [i.e., Nibbāna].”³ If this happens to you, your progress will be interrupted – you will “drop [your] own basic meditation subject and sit just enjoying the [powerful light, insight, joy, etc.].”⁴ This is where an

¹ For details on this practice, please see K&S, pp. 256-258.
² A.III.134 “Uppādā Sutta” (“Arising Discourse”)
³ Vis.XX.123; for an explanation of path and fruition, please see p. 44.
⁴ Vis.XX.123
experienced teacher can help, by pointing out the imperfection when it arises and encouraging you to overcome this attachment by seeing it as impermanent, suffering and without a self.

When you have purified your mind of these ten imperfections, this is called “Purification by Knowledge and Vision of What is and What is Not Path.” Therefore, it is said: “The states consisting in light, insight, joy, etc. are not the path; but it is insight-knowledge that is free from imperfections and keeps to its course that is the path.”¹

¹ Vis.XX.127
Stage Six

Purification by Knowledge and Vision of the Way

Developing the Insight-Knowledges

There are sixteen insight-knowledges that you need to develop progressively in order to see Nibbāna. The first three of these knowledges have already been developed through your previous practices of samatha and vipassanā. With your mind already purified by these three knowledges, you are now ready to develop the following eight insight-knowledges:

1. Knowledge of Arising and Passing-Away
2. Knowledge of Dissolution
3. Knowledge of Terror
4. Knowledge of Danger
5. Knowledge of Disenchantment
6. Knowledge of Desire for Deliverance
7. Knowledge of Reflection
8. Knowledge of Equanimity towards Formations

The first of these eight insight-knowledges, the knowledge of arising and passing-away, actually consists of two insight-knowledges: (i) knowledge of the causal (the causal arising and passing-away of formations) and (ii) knowledge of the momentary (the momentary arising and passing-away of formations). Knowledge of the causal is developed from your previous analysis of dependent origination, and knowledge of 1The first three of these insight-knowledges are: (1) the knowledge of analysing mentality-materiality; (2) the knowledge of discerning cause and condition (seeing dependent origination); and (3) the knowledge of comprehension (discerning the three characteristics in various categories of formations). For a listing of the sixteen insight-knowledges, please see Appendix III, p. 61; for greater detail, see K&S, Chapter 7.

---

the momentary, from your previous analysis of materiality and mentality. To proceed, you should once again divide formations into categories and then, according to the appropriate method of insight – either causal or momentary – examine each category, as before: in your present, past and future lives, extending your range of perception throughout the infinite universe.

Having become fully established in the knowledge of arising and passing-away, your next step is to advance to the knowledge of dissolution. To develop this insight-knowledge, you withdraw your attention from the arising of formations and attend only to the momentary passing away and dissolution of formations. Once you become proficient in this practice, you will no longer see women, men, children, animals, or anything else that can be called a being. You will not even see kalāpas – only the continuous passing away of ultimate materiality and ultimate mentality.

As you progress through each of the subsequent insight-knowledges, your understanding of the inherently painful and terrifying nature of all conditioned existence will gradually mature. You will experience a disenchantment and growing desire to escape from saṃsāra and a turning of the mind toward the unformed element – Nibbāna.

---

1 For a detailed explanation of how to develop the knowledge of arising and passing-away, please see K&S, pp. 264-271.
Stage Seven

Purification by Knowledge and Vision

Realizing Nibbāna

Your task at this point is to develop the final five insight-knowledges, which culminate in the attainment of enlightenment – knowing and seeing Nibbāna. These five insight-knowledges are:

1. Knowledge of Conformity
2. Knowledge of Change-of-Lineage
3. Knowledge of the Path
4. Knowledge of Fruition
5. Knowledge of Reviewing

Even if your initial experience of these five insight-knowledges lasts only for a second, your life will be radically transformed. Doubts and delusions that plagued you for countless lifetimes will disappear in an instant. Shackles that bound you to realms of darkness and suffering will be suddenly removed, and you will experience a freedom and joy beyond anything you had ever known before. But this is not the goal – it is only the first of four stages that every meditator must pass through in order to reach the final goal of arahantship. At each of these four stages, your understanding of the Four Noble Truths grows clearer and clearer, gradually dispelling the clouds of ignorance that have shrouded your mind in darkness for so many lifetimes.

The Buddha describes this process of gradual purification according to the number of defilements that have been destroyed and the number of lives it will take to reach final liberation. He calls these defilements fetters because they fetter beings to the wheel of existence. There are a total of ten fetters, each of which corresponds to a particular stage of enlightenment.
The ten fetters are:

| The Five Lower Fetters¹ | 1. Personality View
| 2. Sceptical Doubt
| 3. Attachment to Rites and Rituals
| 4. Sensual Desire
| 5. Ill-Will |
| The Five Higher Fetters² | 6. Craving for Fine-Material Existence
| 7. Craving for Immaterial Existence
| 8. Conceit
| 9. Restlessness
| 10. Ignorance |

These ten fetters have been your master since the beginning of samsāra. As you progress through each of the four stages of enlightenment, the fetters that correspond to that particular stage will be destroyed, liberating you from the bondage of those defilements. Each stage follows the same basic pattern:

1. Knowledge of conformity prepares the meditator for the transition that will occur in the next two mind-moments, with the arising of change-of-lineage and the path.

2. Knowledge of change-of-lineage ushers in the transition from worldling³ to noble one. This is the first of the insight-knowledges to take Nibbāna as its object.

¹ The five lower fetters tie beings to the sensual realm of existence. The sensual realm includes the four woeful realms, the human realm and the six lower deva realms. For details, please see Appendix IV, p. 63.
² The five higher fetters tie beings to the fine-material and immaterial realms of existence, where materiality is either extremely subtle (in the fine-material realms) or completely absent, as pure mentality (in the immaterial realms). For details, please see Appendix IV, p.63.
³ Worldling (puthūjana): literally “one of many folk;” one who is still bound by the ten fetters to the round of rebirth and has yet to attain the state of a noble one. For greater detail, please see BD, p. 146.
3. Knowledge of the path\(^1\) arises as the meditator’s consciousness enters absorption in the unformed element. With the force of a “thunderbolt,”\(^2\) path knowledge “pierces and explodes the mass of greed, hatred and delusion never pierced and exploded before.” In this moment, the fetters are destroyed.

4. Knowledge of fruition arises as a direct result of the path, with the meditator experiencing the degree of liberation that path knowledge has realized and enjoying the bliss and peace of absorption in the supramundane. Just as a bucket of water cools the embers of a fire, even after that fire has been extinguished, so fruition knowledge completes the task of destroying the fetters, by calming and tranquilising the mind.\(^3\)

5. Knowledge of reviewing arises at the end of fruition, upon re-entering the life-continuum. The meditator then reviews five things: (1) the path; (2) fruition; (3) Nibbāna; (4) what fetters have been removed; and (5) what fetters have yet to be destroyed.\(^4\)

This is a brief overview of the process.\(^5\)

---

1. Path knowledge and fruition knowledge (also called “path and fruition”): These are the two insight-knowledges that form the core of the enlightenment experience. Path knowledge (magga Nibbāna) arises only once at each stage of enlightenment, taking Nibbāna as its object and giving rise, in turn, to its corresponding fruition. Fruition knowledge (phala Nibbāna) also takes Nibbāna as its object. This insight-knowledge denotes those moments of supramundane consciousness that arise immediately after the moment of path consciousness, and which, until the attainment of the next higher path, may reoccur innumerable times during the practice of vipassanā.

2. Vis. XXII.2,13

3. Water simile is from a question-and-answer session with the Sayadaw

4. The process of reviewing the fetters must be performed voluntarily (an arahant has no remaining fetters and therefore does not review item 5).

5. For a detailed description of the final five insight-knowledges, please see K&S, pp. 274-277 and Vis, Chapter XXII.
The four stages of enlightenment are described below:

i. Stream-entry (sotāpatti) path and fruition – At this stage, the three coarsest fetters of (1) personality view, (2) sceptical doubt and (3) attachment to rites and rituals are fully destroyed. With the destruction of personality view, wrong view\(^1\) is eliminated. With the destruction of attachment to rites and rituals, the stream-enterer understands that such practices in themselves do not purify – rather it is the Noble Eightfold Path that purifies. With the destruction of sceptical doubt, he or she gains unshakeable confidence in the Buddha, Dhamma and Sangha.\(^2\) Such a person can no longer be reborn in any of the four woeful realms,\(^3\) nor can he or she perform the type of unwholesome actions that would lead to such a rebirth; for example, a stream-enterer would never intentionally kill another living being, take what belongs to another or deliberately tell a lie. One who has achieved this level of realisation will attain final liberation in a maximum of seven lives.

ii. Once-return (sakadāgāmi) path and fruition – At this stage, the fourth and fifth fetters of (4) sensual desire and (5) ill-will are greatly weakened, but not fully destroyed. One who has achieved this level of realization will return to the human world no more than once before attaining final liberation.

---

1 Wrong view: This refers specifically to the twenty types of identity view (see M.109.10; see also K&S, pp. 285-288, Answers 7.9-7.10).
2 Sangha: the community of bhikkhus; all bhikkhus of the past, present and future, in particular, those bhikkhus who have become noble ones (through attaining any one of the four stages of enlightenment).
3 The four woeful realms: The animal kingdom, the realm of petas (hungry ghosts), the realm of asuras (titans or demons) and the hells – these are the lowest of the thirty-one realms. According to the Buddha, most human beings and devas are reborn in the woeful realms (see Appendix IV, p. 63 and S.56.102-113).
iii. Non-return (anāgāmi) path and fruition – At this stage, the two fetters of (4) sensual desire and (5) ill-will are fully destroyed. One who has achieved this level of realisation is no longer bound to the sensual realm of existence by the five lower fetters. With the destruction of sensual desire, the non-returner will never again entertain a thought of lust or craving for any object of the five senses.\(^1\) With the destruction of ill-will, he or she will never again become angry or act out of fear. Such a person will be reborn in a Brahma (fine-material) Realm and there attain final Nibbāna, without ever returning from that realm.

iv. Arahant (arahatta) path and fruition – At this stage, the remaining five higher fetters of (6) craving for fine-material existence, (7) craving for immaterial existence, (8) conceit, (9) restlessness and (10) ignorance are fully destroyed. With the complete destruction of all ten fetters, the arahant attains a state of perfect purity, no longer bound to any of the thirty-one realms of existence and cleansed of even the last vestiges of ignorance and craving. With this attainment, the cycle of dependent origination comes to an end. For such a person, “Birth is destroyed, the holy life has been lived, what had to be done has been done, there is no more coming to any state of being.”\(^2\)

If a single achievement could be said to embody the essence of the Four Noble Truths, it is undoubtedly the attainment of arahantship. In fact, everything the Buddha taught during his forty-five years as the Perfectly Enlightened One, beginning with his first discourse at Isipatana, was directed toward that single goal: “So this holy life, bhikkhus, does not have gain, honour and renown for its benefit, nor the attainment of virtue for its benefit, nor the attainment of concentration for its benefit, nor knowledge and vision for its benefit. But it is this unshakeable liberation of the mind that is the goal, bhikkhus, of this holy life, its heartwood and its end.”
STAGE SEVEN: PURIFICATION BY KNOWLEDGE AND VISION

Upon his own attainment of arahantship, the Buddha uttered these words of exultation:

“Through many a birth
I wandered in saṁsāra, Seeking, but not finding
The builder 2 of this house.
Painful it is to be born again and again.

“O house-builder! You are seen.
You shall build no house again.
All your rafters are broken.
Your ridgepole is shattered.
My mind has attained the unconditioned.
Achieved is the end of craving.”

---

2 Builder: craving; House: body (the five aggregates); Rafters: defilements; Ridgepole: ignorance

3 Dh.153-154 “Udāna Vatthu” (“Words of Exultation”) spoken by the Buddha after his Great Enlightenment (and chanted every morning in the meditation halls at Pa-Auk Forest Monastery)
Conclusion

This book began with a general discussion of the Four Noble Truths and the Threefold Training. It then touched on some of the primary teaching methods employed at Pa-Auk Forest Monastery and described in the Sayadaw’s book Knowing and Seeing. Topics covered include: training in morality; mindfulness of breathing; four-elements meditation; the analysis of ultimate materiality and ultimate mentality; dependent origination; the practice of vipassanā; the sixteen insight-knowledges; and the four stages of enlightenment.

Having come to the conclusion of this brief overview, you may be wondering what first steps you can take to get established in a home-based meditation practice. Alternatively, you may have thought about coming to a forest monastery, like this one, where you could pursue the practices of samatha and vipassanā in a more conducive setting, under the guidance of a qualified teacher.

As a householder, a best first step would be to begin with the practice of mindfulness of breathing; start with an hour (or as close to an hour as possible) and try to work up to two or three hours a day. Keep in mind that regular daily meditation is the key to success. To support your practice, you should make a strong effort to observe the five precepts for laypersons. If you are able to attend a Pa-Auk meditation retreat, this would give your practice a tremendous boost. A list of upcoming Pa-Auk retreats can be found at www.paaukforestmonastery.org. For more information on upcoming retreats, you may also check with a local Pa-Auk contact person (listed in our Resource Guide on page 83).

During the time of the Buddha, many laypeople were able to successfully practise the threefold training at home, attain path and fruition, and become noble ones. The Buddha, however, spoke time and again about the cares of the householder’s life\(^1\). Owing to its many responsibilities and distractions, such a life is inevitably fraught with unforeseen challenges and disappointments. Practising in a traditional forest monastery, on the other hand, has many advantages. It is here that you will find:

- A supportive community of like-minded individuals
- Noble friends and wise teachers
- An environment that encourages the observance of the precepts
- A secluded environment with few distractions
- Few responsibilities
- A culture and laity that support the traditional practice of Theravāda Buddhism and, in particular, the monastic lifestyle

Other than our daily timetable, the monastery does not follow any special retreat schedule. If you plan to come for a retreat, as a general rule, the longer you stay, the greater the benefit. A certain amount of preparatory reading may also be helpful.

Recommended Reading List

- Knowing and Seeing (Revised Edition) by the Venerable Pa-Auk Tawya Sayadaw; 2003
- Life of the Buddha by Bhikkhu Ñāṇamoli: Buddhist Publication Society; Kandy, Sri Lanka; 1972, 1992
- The Middle Length Discourses of the Buddha by Bhikkhu Ñāṇamoli and Bhikkhu Bodhi: Wisdom Publications; Somerville, Massachusetts; USA; 1995, 2001

---

\(^1\) Householder’s life (cares of): M.13.7-11, M.26.5-14, M.36.12, M.125.23
CONCLUSION

For those who wish to ordain, The Buddhist Monastic Code by Thanissaro Bhikkhu (or another translation of the monastic disciplinary code) is required reading. This book is available on the Internet at www.accesstoinsight.org.

For a more detailed description of the Pa-Auk teaching methods, please refer to Knowing and Seeing by the Venerable Pa-Auk Tawya Sayadaw.

Further information on Pa-Auk Forest Monastery and its affiliate centres, including a virtual copy of Knowing and Seeing and an international retreat schedule, may be obtained at the websites listed in our Resource Guide on page 83.

You may also write directly to the monastery or contact any of the contact persons listed in the Resource Guide.

May you be happy.
Biography of the Sayadaw

The Venerable Ācīṇa, commonly referred to as the “Venerable Pa-Auk Tawya Sayadaw” (and, in less formal circumstances, as “Pa-Auk Sayadaw”), is the current abbot and principal teacher at Pa-Auk Forest Monastery. “Sayadaw” is a Burmese honorific title meaning “respected teacher.”

The Sayadaw was born in 1934, in Leigh-Chaung Village, Hinthada Township, in the delta region about one hundred miles northwest of the capital, Yangon. In 1944, at age ten, he ordained as a novice monk (sāmapera) at a monastery in his village. During the next decade, he pursued the life of a typical scholar-novice, studying the Pāli Texts (including Vinaya, Suttas and Abhidhamma) under various teachers. He passed the three Pāli language examinations while still a novice.

In 1954, at age twenty, the Sayadaw received the higher ordination as a bhikkhu. He continued his studies of the Pāli Texts under the guidance of learned elder monks. In 1956 he passed the prestigious Dhammācariya examination. This is equivalent to a BA in Buddhist Pāli Studies and confers the title of “Dhamma Teacher.”

During the next eight years, the Sayadaw continued his investigation into the Dhamma, travelling throughout Myanmar to learn from various well-known teachers. In 1964, during his tenth “rains retreat” (vassa), he turned his attention to intensifying his meditation practice and began to practise “forest dwelling.” Although he continued with his study of the Pāli Texts, he now sought out and gained instruction from the revered meditation teachers of those times.

For the next sixteen years, he made forest dwelling his primary practice. He spent these years in the southern part of Myanmar, in Mon State: three years in Mudon Township (just south of Mawlamyine) and thirteen years in Ye Township (approximately one hundred miles down the coast). During this period, he lived a very simple life, devoting his time to meditation and study of the Pāli Texts.
In 1981 the Sayadaw received a message from the abbot of Pa-Auk Forest Monastery, the Venerable Aggapaññā. The abbot was dying and asked the Venerable Āciṇṇa to look after his monastery. Five days later, the Venerable Aggapaññā passed away. As the new abbot of the monastery, the Venerable Āciṇṇa became known as the “Pa-Auk Tawya Sayadaw.” Although he oversaw the running of the monastery, the Sayadaw would spend most of his time in seclusion, meditating in a bamboo hut in the upper forested area, which covered a deserted range of hills running along the base of the Taung Nyo Mountain Range. This area later came to be known as the Upper Monastery.

Since 1983, both monastics and laity have been coming to study meditation with the Sayadaw. Foreign meditators began to arrive at the monastery in the early 1990’s. As the Sayadaw’s reputation steadily grew, the Upper Monastery gradually expanded from a simple bamboo hut and a handful of disciples to more than two hundred and twenty kuṭis (meditators’ huts) in the forest; a large two-storey meditation hall; a clinic; a hospital; an almsgiving hall; a two-storey refectory; a new three-storey library (with office, computer room and dormitory); a reception hall and dwelling for the Sayadaw; and a just-completed large and beautiful three-storey meditation hall for the women (in the Lower Monastery).

Currently, there are more than one hundred foreign monks, nuns and lay practitioners residing at Pa-Auk Forest Monastery. During our three-month rains retreat, the total monastic population averages between six and seven hundred. Together with laypeople, the monastery population sometimes tops one thousand during festival times.

In 1997 the Sayadaw published his Magnum Opus, an enormous five-volume tome titled The Practice that Leads to Nibbāna, explaining the entire course of teaching in detail and supported by copious quotations from the Pāli Texts – it is currently available only in Burmese and Sinhalese. On January 4, 1999, in public recognition of the Sayadaw’s achievements, the government bestowed upon him the title Agga Mahā Kammaṭṭhānācariya, which means “Highly Respected Meditation Teacher.”

The Sayadaw speaks fluent English and has lectured and led retreats outside of Myanmar since 1997. His teaching schedule for 2006 includes retreats in the United States – in Miami, Florida and Barre, Massachusetts (at the Forest Refuge) – and in the United Kingdom.

For further information on upcoming retreats, please visit www.paaukforestmonastery.org.
Tables on the Jhānas

Table 1: The Jhāna Factors

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Jhāna</th>
<th>Jhāna Factors</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
| First Jhāna | 1. Initial Application (of the Mind) \((vītakka)\)
2. Sustained Application (of the Mind) \((vīcāra)\)
3. Rapture \((pīti)\)
4. Happiness \((sukha)\)
5. One-Pointedness (of Mind) \((ekaggatā)\) |
| Second Jhāna | 1. Rapture
2. Happiness
3. One-Pointedness (of Mind) |
| Third Jhāna | 1. Happiness
2. One-Pointedness (of Mind) |
| Fourth Jhāna | 1. Equanimity \((upekkhā)\)
2. One-Pointedness (of Mind) |

1 For a detailed description of the jhāna factors, please see Vis.IV.88-101, 194-195.

Table 2: The Five Kinds of Jhāna Mastery

1. To enter jhāna whenever desired.
2. To resolve to stay in jhāna for a determined length of time, and to carry out that resolve.
3. To emerge from jhāna at the determined time.
4. To advert (bring your attention) to the jhāna factors (after emerging from jhāna).
5. To review the jhāna factors.
Table 3: Samatha Subjects Taught at Pa-Auk and their Respective Attainments

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Subject</th>
<th>Attainment</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Mindfulness of Breathing</td>
<td>Up to 4&lt;sup&gt;th&lt;/sup&gt; Jhāna</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Four-Elements Meditation</td>
<td>Up to Access Concentration</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Thirty-two Parts of the Body</td>
<td>Up to Access or 1&lt;sup&gt;st&lt;/sup&gt; Jhāna&lt;sup&gt;1&lt;/sup&gt;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Skeleton Meditation</td>
<td>Up to Access or 1&lt;sup&gt;st&lt;/sup&gt; Jhāna</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Ten Kasiṇas</td>
<td>Up to 4&lt;sup&gt;th&lt;/sup&gt; Jhāna</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Earth, Water, Fire, Air, Yellow, Blue, Red, White, Space, Light</td>
<td>&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Four Immaterial Jhānas</td>
<td>1&lt;sup&gt;st&lt;/sup&gt; Immaterial Jhāna</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1. Boundless Space</td>
<td>2&lt;sup&gt;nd&lt;/sup&gt; Immaterial Jhāna</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2. Boundless Consciousness</td>
<td>3&lt;sup&gt;rd&lt;/sup&gt; Immaterial Jhāna</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3. Nothingness</td>
<td>4&lt;sup&gt;th&lt;/sup&gt; Immaterial Jhāna</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4. Neither-Perception-Non-Perception</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Four Divine Abodes</td>
<td>Up to 3&lt;sup&gt;rd&lt;/sup&gt; Jhāna</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1. Loving-Kindness</td>
<td>&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2. Compassion</td>
<td>&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3. Appreciative Joy</td>
<td>4&lt;sup&gt;th&lt;/sup&gt; Jhāna only</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4. Equanimity</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Four Protective Meditations</td>
<td>Up to 3&lt;sup&gt;rd&lt;/sup&gt; Jhāna</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1. Loving-Kindness</td>
<td>Up to Access Concentration</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2. Recollection of the Buddha</td>
<td>Up to 1&lt;sup&gt;st&lt;/sup&gt; Jhāna</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3. Loathsomeness</td>
<td>Up to Access Concentration</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4. Recollection of Death</td>
<td></td>
</tr> </tbody>
</table>

<sup>1</sup> Although it is possible to attain access concentration or 1st jhāna using thirty-two parts as a meditation subject, neither attainment is required for success in this practice; for a detailed description of the thirty-two parts practice, please see K&S, pp. 67-69.
This chart illustrates the general course of instruction at Pa-Auk Forest Monastery. Based on the meditator’s personal requirements, instruction may vary from case to case.
Appendix III

Stages of Purification & the Insight-Knowledges

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Purification and Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>I. Purification of Virtue</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>● The Fourfold Purification</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>II. Purification of Mind</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>● The Forty Samatha Subjects Taught by the Buddha</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>III. Purification of View</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1. Knowledge of Analysing Mentality-Materiality</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>IV. Purification by Overcoming Doubt</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2. Knowledge of Discerning Cause and Condition</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>V. Purification by Knowledge and Vision of What is and What is Not Path</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3. Knowledge of Comprehension</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>VI. Purification by Knowledge and Vision of the Way</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4. Knowledge of Arising and Passing-Away</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5. Knowledge of Dissolution</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6. Knowledge of Terror</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7. Knowledge of Danger</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8. Knowledge of Disenchantment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9. Knowledge of Desire for Deliverance</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>10. Knowledge of Reflection</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>11. Knowledge of Equanimity towards Formations</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>VII. Purification by Knowledge and Vision</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12. Knowledge of Conformity</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>13. Knowledge of Change-of-Lineage</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>14. Knowledge of the Path</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>15. Knowledge of Fruition</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>16. Knowledge of Reviewing</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
The Thirty-One Realms of Existence

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Main Divisions</th>
<th>Realms</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>4 Immaterial Realms (arūpa-loka)</td>
<td>Realm of Neither-Perception-Nor-Non-Perception</td>
<td>These are realms of pure mentality, attained by entering one of the four immaterial jhānas just before the moment of death. Beings in these realms can live for thousands of aeons and enjoy the highest degree of jhānic bliss. Without path and fruition, however, even the purest concentration is no guarantee that one will not eventually fall back into a lower realm.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Realm of Nothingness</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Realm of Infinite Consciousness</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Realm of Infinite Space</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>16 Fine-Material Realms (rūpa-loka)</td>
<td>4th Jhāna Plane (7 Realms)</td>
<td>These are realms of subtle materiality, attained by entering one of the four jhānas just before the moment of death. Beings in these “Brahma Realms” possess perfect sīla, can live for aeons and enjoy varying degrees of jhānic bliss. Humans and devas accomplished in jhāna may be reborn here. Beings in the woeful realms, however, are unable to attain jhāna.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>3rd Jhāna Plane (3 Realms)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>2nd Jhāna Plane (3 Realms)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>1st Jhāna Plane (3 Realms)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>11 Sensual Realms (kāma-loka)</td>
<td>Deva Realms (6 Realms)</td>
<td>The Sensuous and Blissful Realms Of all thirty-one realms, the human realm provides the greatest range of pleasure and pain, as well as the greatest opportunity for enlightenment. Life as a deva, on the other hand, is extremely pleasant, filled with sensual pleasures far superior to those in the</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Human Realm</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Asura Realm</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Peta Realm</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Animal Realm</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Hell Realm</td>
<td>The Four Woeful Realms These four woeful realms are the home for most living beings. Once one falls into one of these woeful realms, in most cases it is extremely difficult to escape.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

---

1 Concept and table design adopted from AS.V.3-7, including Table 5.1.
Information for Foreign Meditators at Pa-Auk Forest Monastery

Pa-Auk Forest Monastery (“Pa-Auk Tawya” in Burmese) is a Buddhist monastery in the Theravāda tradition, with emphasis on the teaching and practice of both samathā (tranquillity) and vipassanā (insight) meditation. The number of residents varies seasonally from approximately 500 to 1,000 – this includes more than 100 foreign monks, nuns and lay practitioners, coming from more than twenty different countries. All are here to practise meditation under the guidance of the Venerable Pa-Auk Tawya Sayadaw, the abbot and principal teacher at this monastery.

This document provides you with an outline of the monastery’s basic requirements and services, plus it tells you how to get here.

Arrival
- Pa-Auk Forest Monastery is divided into the Upper, Middle and Lower Monasteries. Upon arrival, foreigners must register at the following locations: male residents – the Registration Office for Foreigners in the Upper Monastery; female residents – the Lower Monastery Office. Please be sure to obtain and read a copy of our “Rules for Foreign Meditators” (Appendix VI of this book), which you can pick up at either office.

In General
- Meditators must strictly observe the fourfold purification during their stay here. This purification consists of:

  (1) The 227 rules of the Pātimokkha for Theravāda monks; the 10 precepts and 75 Sekhiya (training) rules for novices; and the 5, 8 or 10 precepts for laypersons and nuns.
(2) Restraint of the six sense faculties – of the eye, ear, nose, tongue, body and mind.
(3) Purification of livelihood (Right Livelihood) – livelihood that accords with the precepts.
(4) Reflection on (and moderation in) the use of the four requisites – food, shelter, clothing and medicine.

Meditation
- Everyone must attend the group sittings at their respective meditation hall. Group sittings are held at the following times: 4:00-5:30 am, 7:30-9:00 am, 1:00-2:30 pm, 3:30-5:00 pm and 7:30-9:00 pm.
- Interviews with Pa-Auk meditation teachers are an important aid to one’s practice. New arrivals should come for an interview every day (or make a suitable arrangement that accords with their meditation teacher’s schedule).
- Meditators must practise according to the instructions of their meditation teacher.

Smoking, Drinking and Drugs
- Smoking, drinking, chewing tobacco or betel nut, and the use of recreational drugs are strictly forbidden. If you use any of these items, please dispose of them before entering the monastery.
- There are no exceptions to this rule. If you break this rule, you will be asked to leave.

Diet and Piṇḍapāta
- Meals are offered in the Piṇḍapātasāla (alms hall). Please arrive for piṇḍapāta at the following times:
  • Breakfast – 5:30-6:00 am (depending on the time of dawn)
  • Lunch – 10:00-10:15 am
- The kitchen prepares a vegetarian diet only; no special diets are offered.
- Boiled and filtered drinking water are available at various locations throughout the monastery.
APPENDIX V: INFORMATION FOR FOREIGN MEDITATORS

Attire
- Theravāda monks and novices should wear only allowable robes, slippers, etc. Robes must be kept clean. Highly colourful robes (red, bright yellow, etc.) are not acceptable.
- Lay practitioners should dress modestly at all times:
  - Men – no bare shoulders, no bare calves, no bare knees; no shorts, no sleeveless shirts, vests or undershirts; no ripped or otherwise improper attire.
  - Women – no bare shoulders, midriff, calves or knees; no short skirts, no shorts, no sleeveless shirts or blouses; no thin, transparent, tight, revealing, brightly coloured or otherwise improper attire.

Medical Care
- There are quarters for the sick and a clinic, with a resident doctor. A local doctor trained in Western medicine visits once a week; another trained in traditional Burmese medicine visits once a fortnight.

International Mail
- Excessive correspondence can disturb meditation. Please keep your correspondence to a minimum.
- Outgoing mail should be left in the Outgoing Mailbox at the Pīṇḍapātāsālā; incoming mail can be picked up on the table next to the Outgoing Mailbox. It is best for important incoming and outgoing letters to be registered.
- International parcels must be picked up in Yangon. Please check at the Lower Monastery Office to see if they can suggest someone to do this for you.
- To protect incoming parcels against loss or damage, all international parcels should be insured. Ask the sender to mail you a copy of the insurance form.
- Be aware that parcels are subject to customs formalities, censorship and duties.
APPENDIX V: INFORMATION FOR FOREIGN MEDITATORS

International Telephone Calls
- You can use the telephone in the Lower Monastery Office for incoming calls – service is intermittent and low quality. You will need to go outside the monastery to make outgoing calls; international calls are expensive and must be paid in US dollars.

E-mail/Internet
- Permission to send/receive e-mail is granted on a case-by-case basis.

Monastics and Money
- Theravāda monks, novices and 10-precept nuns are not permitted to use, handle or possess money in any form: cash, credit cards, cheques, electronic transactions, gold, silver, jewellery, etc. Monastics who carry their own funds must relinquish them PERMANENTLY before taking up residence in the monastery. There are no exceptions to this rule. (For those monastics with allowable requisite funds, see below.)

- Monastics with allowable requisite funds must arrange for the proper transfer of requisites from their previous location to the Pa-Auk kappiyakāraka (steward; hereafter referred to as “kappiya” for short) or other such person. Transfer of funds MUST follow the prescribed procedure in the Vinaya (please refer to the Pāṭimokkha, Nissaggiya Pācittiya rules 10, 18, 19 & 20).

- If you come to the monastery as a layperson and decide to ordain, you must make proper arrangements for your funds before ordination; this can be done through the monastery kappiya.

Visa Application/Extension, etc.
- If you plan to stay at Pa-Auk Forest Monastery for more than one month, you will need a Pa-Auk Sponsorship Letter in order to apply for the appropriate type of visa (either an entry or meditation visa). You can obtain a Sponsorship Letter through a Pa-Auk Contact Person or by writing to the monastery, attention: U Kuṇḍadhāna or U Candimā. With the Sponsorship Letter, you have two options: you can apply for your visa at the Myanmar Embassy in your home country or you can apply in Bangkok, on your way to Myanmar. Be aware that the visa application process in your home country could easily take up to a month or longer. If you apply in Bangkok, providing you arrive at the embassy early enough in the morning, you can usually pick up your visa the next day (same-day for a surcharge). Contact information for the Bangkok Embassy and a listing of contact persons can be found in our Resource Guide on page 83.

- Once you get to Pa-Auk Forest Monastery, you can apply for a three-month, six-month or one-year visa extension (stay permit). Payment for your extension can be arranged through the monastery kappiya. He will need 9 passport photos plus sufficient requisite funds in US dollars. Dollar bills must be in good condition: worn, torn, nicked, marked or questionable bills are unacceptable.

- Please be aware that visa extension regulations and costs are subject to change. Current cost of a one-year visa extension is US$90. The visa extension should be applied for as soon as possible after arrival in Myanmar. After that, applications for further extension should be made at least two months before the expiry date of the visa extension.

- If you are a Theravāda monk, novice or 10-precept nun, the monastery will try to cover your expenses, but if the fees are in US dollars, the monastery’s Burmese dāyakas (donors) will be unable to pay. So, to be safe, it is best for a dāyaka of your own to make arrangements with a local kappiya to handle the financial side of the extension fees.
- If you stay longer than three months, you must obtain a Foreigner’s Registration Certificate (FRC), and when you leave, a Departure Form. Please apply for the FRC at least one month in advance.

Sponsorship
- A sponsorship letter grants permission for you to reside at this monastery – nothing more. All financial requirements (including medical, dental, transportation, visas, FRC, departure forms and other requisite items) are your personal responsibility. Please arrive with SUFFICIENT FUNDS (IN US DOLLARS) for the duration of your stay.
- If your visa was obtained with a Pa-Auk Sponsorship Letter, this means you have agreed to stay at Pa-Auk Forest Monastery for the visa’s duration. To use an entry/meditation visa for sightseeing and tourism would constitute an abuse of the privilege granted to you by the Sponsorship Letter and could create problems for the monastery.

Suggested Items to Bring
- The following list of suggested items was compiled by foreign meditators here: 10-12 passport photos; vitamin and herbal supplements; herbal teas; light, comfortable, easy-to-wash clothing; dental floss; toiletries; towel; talcum/medicated powder; large umbrella; earplugs; water resistant sandals; torch/flashlight; battery-powered alarm clock; mosquito repellent; yoga mat (if you practice yoga); spare glasses and copy of your prescription; get dental work done before coming. Most everyday-items can be obtained locally, name brands excluded; voltage here is 220V.

Climate
- There are three seasons in Myanmar: a hot season (March-May); a rainy season (June-Oct.); and a cold season (November-February). Temperatures range from 15° to 40° Centigrade (59° to 104° Fahrenheit).
APPENDIX V: INFORMATION FOR FOREIGN MEDITATORS

How to Get to Pa-Auk Forest Monastery from Yangon
(Yangon → Mawlamyine → Pa-Auk → Mudon)

- Mawlamyine is 301 kms (187 miles) southeast of Yangon, and the monastery is another 14.5 kms (9 miles) southeast of Mawlamyine. Air-conditioned overnight buses to Mawlamyine/Mudon depart daily from the highway bus station in Yangon. You can buy tickets along the south side of Aung San Stadium, opposite the central train station. Note: If you take the Mudon bus, ask the driver to let you off at “Pa-Auk Tawya” (the bus goes right past the main gate of the monastery on the way to Mudon).

- Travel options include a weekly flight to Mawlamyine and a new train service (not yet in operation) that will go direct from Yangon to Mawlamyine. If you take the train, be sure to go first class.

- Contact persons in Yangon can help you get to the monastery. For a listing of contact persons, please check our Resource Guide on page 83.

Revised January 16, 2006
Appendix VI

Rules for Foreign Meditators at Pa-Auk Forest Monastery

There is one basic rule of conduct at Pa-Auk Forest Monastery, which embodies the spirit and essence of all the other rules that follow: to act properly at all times, showing respect and consideration for one another. As the Buddha encouraged his followers, let us live “in concord, with mutual appreciation, without disputing, blending like milk and water, viewing each other with kindly eyes.”

Arrival/Departure

1. Pa-Auk Forest Monastery is divided into the Upper, Middle and Lower Monasteries. Upon arrival and departure, foreigners must register at the following locations: male residents – the Registration Office for Foreigners in the Upper Monastery; female residents – the Lower Monastery Office.
2. If you plan to be away from your kuṭi (meditator’s hut) for EVEN ONE NIGHT, you must leave it ready for anyone else to come and occupy: male residents – wash and clean what you have used, lock your kuṭi and return all borrowed items, including your kuṭi key, to the Saṅgha Office (in the Library building); female residents – wash and clean what you have used, lock your kuṭi and return your kuṭi key to the Lower Monastery Office. (Both male and female residents: You must return your kuṭi key even if the kuṭi is your own offering to the monastery.)
3. Do not leave the grounds overnight with the key to your kuṭi or take any Saṅgha items with you, such as eating utensils, umbrella, books, or tapes.

1 M.31.6 “Cūḷagosinga Sutta” (“The Shorter Discourse in Gosinga”)
4. Do not leave your personal belongings behind. Please make prior arrangements with a fellow resident to store those items that you wish to keep and inform the Saṅgha Office of those items that you do not wish to keep.

Meditation

1. Everyone must attend the group sittings at their respective meditation hall (unless the Venerable Pa-Auk Tawya Sayadaw has given them permission to meditate in their own kuti). Group sittings are held at the following times: 4:00-5:30 am, 7:30-9:00 am, 1:00-2:30 pm, 3:30-5:00 pm and 7:30-9:00 pm. Those who wish to continue sitting in the meditation hall are welcome to do so during non-scheduled hours.

2. New arrivals should come for an interview with their meditation teacher every day (or make a suitable arrangement that accords with their meditation teacher’s schedule).

3. Meditators must practise according to the instructions of their meditation teacher.

4. Out of respect to your teacher, please describe your meditation experiences with absolute honesty. The report should be brief and to the point, and should reflect your personal experience.

5. Do not discuss your meditation practice with others or speak about your attainments. Questions about your meditation practice should be directed to your meditation teacher only.

6. Practise mindfulness. Move slowly and quietly when entering and leaving the meditation hall, while going to your seat, sitting down and in making any other movements. Please be considerate of others. Do not bring extraneous books, bottles, plastic bags, etc. that may make a noise when handled. Do not make noise when handling items such as keys or your meditation manual. Although the need for silence applies particularly during scheduled meditation hours, you should make an effort to observe it at all times, as there are meditators who practise beyond the scheduled hours.

7. Do not talk in or around the meditation hall. If you must talk, then do so quietly away from the meditation hall or out on the veranda where you cannot be heard. Loud talk, noisy whispering and, in particular, laughter can be distracting to other meditators. Remember that even after the formal meditation period has ended, others may still be meditating. Please be respectful of their efforts.

8. Do not use strong smelling balms, beeping clocks or noisy watches in the meditation hall.

Kuṭis
1. Please accept the kuṭi that has been assigned to you. Any problems with your kuṭi should be addressed to the Registration Office for Foreigners or the Lower Monastery Office. Do not change kuṭis without permission.

2. When you leave your kuṭi during the day, always remember to lock the door and windows. Make sure your valuables are stored in a safe place (or leave them at the Lower Monastery Office).

3. If you wish to repair or renovate your kuṭi (at your own expense and supervision), please discuss this with the Sayadaw, U Kṇḍadhāna, U Candimā or the monastery kappiya (steward) in the Lower Monastery Office.

General Conduct
1. Smoking, drinking, chewing tobacco or betel nut, and the use of recreational drugs are strictly forbidden. If it is discovered that you have been using any of these items, you will be asked to leave.

2. Please be respectful of the environment: do not litter; do not waste water or electricity.

3. Do not talk while waiting in the piṇḍapāta line for alms.
4. During almsround, do not accept more food than you expect to eat.

5. The following items are allowable after midday: hot and cold water; fresh strained fruit juice diluted with cold water; sugar or jaggery diluted with hot or cold water; herbal teas. To counteract sickness/weakness/tiredness, you may take butter, ghee, oil, honey, sugar and allowable medicine.

6. The following items are not allowable after midday: solid food; boiled or otherwise processed juices made from fruits or vegetables; coffee, tea, Milo, milk, soft drinks, chocolate, cocoa, etc.

7. If you go barefoot, according to the Vinaya, you should wash your feet before entering Saṅgha buildings.

8. Between 7:00 and 7:30 am, residents should clean their kuṭis and sweep the surrounding paths and areas. Those who wish may join the local Saṅgha between 5:00 and 6:00 pm in cleaning the meditation hall, sweeping public paths and walkways, cleaning public toilets, etc.

9. Male residents may not receive women in their quarters without direct permission from the Sayadaw, U Kuṇḍadhāna or U Candimā. The same rule applies to female residents receiving men. Conversations between men and women must be conducted in public places. A single woman should not approach a monk without another man nearby who understands what is being said. Although two or more women may approach a single monk, they may not do so inside a kuṭi or other enclosed area.

10. Yoga, Chi Gong and other acceptable forms of exercise may be done in private, but not in public. Do not teach such exercises to others without permission from the Sayadaw.

11. Speak only when necessary. The rest of the time you should keep noble silence and attend solely to your meditation practice.
12. In General: Please be mindful in thought, speech and action; avoid finding fault with others; practise contentment and tolerance. When misunderstandings arise, please discuss them with your meditation teacher.

Seclusion
1. Silence and seclusion are important aids in developing concentration. For your own benefit, it is best not to leave the monastery grounds unless it is really necessary. If you need to leave, check first with the Sayadaw or your meditation teacher. If he approves your request, please inform U Kuṇḍadhāna or U Candimā. If you plan to be away overnight or longer, please also inform the appropriate office when, where and how you will be travelling, and when you expect to return.
2. Please avoid mingling with villagers and other local people outside the monastery.

Immigration
1. If your visa was obtained with a Pa-Auk Sponsorship Letter, this means you have agreed to stay at Pa-Auk Forest Monastery for the visa’s duration. To use an entry/meditation visa for sightseeing and tourism would constitute an abuse of the privilege granted to you by the Sponsorship Letter and could create problems for the monastery.

Theravāda Monks, Novices and 10-Precept Nuns
1. Sīla: Monastics must observe their respective sīla: for Theravāda monks (bhikkhus) – the 227 rules of the Pāṭimokkha and all other Vinaya rules; for novices (sāmaṇeras) – the 10 precepts, 75 Sekhiya (training) rules and all other Vinaya rules that apply; for Theravāda nuns – the 10 precepts.
2. Unallowable Items: Theravāda monks, novices and 10-precept nuns are not permitted to use, handle or possess money in any form: cash, credit cards, cheques, electronic transactions, gold, silver, jewellery, etc. Monastics who carry their own funds must relinquish them PERMANENTLY before taking up residence in the monastery. There are no exceptions to this rule.

3. Food: No food is to be eaten after midday. If you are sick, you are allowed the five tonics: butter, ghee, oil, honey and sugar, as well as appropriate medicines.

Theravāda Monks

1. Nissaya: If you have less than 5 vassa, you must take nissaya with a Theravāda monk who has at least 10 vassa and is knowledgeable.

2. Food Storage: Bhikkhus may not store food overnight or keep tonics longer than seven days. Before the eighth dawn, all tonics must be relinquished to a layperson, nun or novice, without expecting to have them returned. To avoid waste, the best procedure is to take the exact amount you need for seven days. Be aware that medicines that contain oil or sugar are also subject to the seven-day rule.

3. Incoming Parcels: If a package arrives for you that might contain food, tonics or medicine, DO NOT TOUCH IT until it has been opened and examined by a layman or novice. He will then personally offer you those items that are allowable (at that time) and keep the remainder (to offer when appropriate). Be aware that if you touch any of the above items BEFORE they have been offered to you, you will have to PERMANENTLY RELINQUISH them.

4. Ordination and Food Storage: This rule applies to both laymen and the novices who are planning to take higher ordination. If food, tonics or medicine are in your possession at the time of ordination, DO NOT TOUCH any of these items until after they have been offered to you by either a layman or novice. See Rule 3 (directly above) for details on how these items should be offered.
APPENDIX VI: RULES FOR FOREIGN MEDITATORS

Theravāda Monks and Novices

1. Unallowable items: Requisite items obtained from unallowable sources (e.g. items that you or another Theravāda monk has bought) must be permanently relinquished before taking up residence in the monastery. There are no exceptions to this rule.

2. Requisites: Do not request requisite items from anyone other than a blood relative or someone who has previously made an invitation to you. An exception to this rule may be made when requesting medicine if you are ill.

3. Piṇḍapāta: Foreign monks must collect piṇḍapāta at the Piṇḍapātasāla. If you want to go for piṇḍapāta in the village, you must first receive permission from the Sayadaw.

4. Piṇḍapāta Etiquette: Foreign monks are privileged guests and are invited to receive alms ahead of even the most senior Myanmar bhikkhus. In order to show respect, please arrive at the Piṇḍapātasāla on time. If you are late, do not rush to the front of the piṇḍapāta line. If the line has already begun to move and you are unable to reach the foreign monk’s section, you should enter the Myanmar line according to your vassa age. Do not cut in front of senior bhikkhus. If Mahāyāna monks are late, they may not enter the Theravāda line, but should wait until it has passed. ON NO ACCOUNT should anyone enter the line beyond the last turn (at the sign).

5. Ordination: A candidate for ordination as a bhikkhu must study and thoroughly familiarize himself with the 227 rules of the Pātimokkha before taking ordination. A Mahāyāna monk must relinquish his Mahāyāna ordination completely before taking Theravāda ordination.

Mahāyāna Bhikshunīs, 8/10-Precept Nuns and Laywomen

1. Piṇḍapāta Etiquette: The queuing order for the piṇḍapāta line is according to vassa for Mahāyāna bhikshunīs and according to age for 8/10-precept nuns and laywomen.
Once the line has begun to move, bhikṣunīs and 8/10-precept nuns may not enter the line in front of other bhikṣunīs or nuns, but only at the end of the nun’s queue.

2. Walking: Women should not walk alone between the Upper and Lower Monasteries. Please make arrangements to always have at least one female companion with you.

3. Interviews: A single woman should never be alone with a male teacher. If you are alone, please excuse yourself and find a companion or come at another time.

4. Decorum: During interviews, please maintain a proper distance from the male interpreter/teacher and observe modesty in all ways.

Laymen and Laywomen

1. Precepts: For the sake of communal harmony, as well as for your own practice, please memorise the eight precepts and observe them strictly. Everyone is encouraged to take the precepts formally upon arrival, and at the appointed time once a week. For Buddhists, the taking of the precepts is compulsory. Exception to the sixth precept is given by the Sayadaw only in cases of very severe gastric problems.

2. Attire: Please dress modestly at all times.
   - Men – no bare shoulders, no bare calves, no bare knees; no shorts, no sleeveless shirts, vests or undershirts; no ripped or otherwise improper attire. Shirts must always be worn.
   - Women – no bare shoulders, midriff, calves or knees; no short skirts, no shorts, no sleeveless shirts or blouses; no thin, transparent, tight, revealing, brightly coloured or otherwise improper attire.

3. Pindapāta Etiquette: Please do not wear unclean or unsuitable attire (shorts, undershirts, etc.) to pīṇḍapāta.

4. Requisites: You are responsible for providing yourself with a bowl, mosquito net, blankets and other necessities.
APPENDIX VI: RULES FOR FOREIGN MEDITATORS

You may go to the market twice a month, after receiving permission from your teacher.

5.  ஆனா:  If you wish to offer a meal, you may arrange it through the Lower Monastery Office.

Revised January 16, 2006
Pa-Auk Resource Guide

Websites

Malaysia – www.Dhamma-s.org (text is in Chinese) Singapore – www.paaukforestmonastery.org
USA – www.paauk.org

Myanmar Contact Information

Meditation Centres
Pa-Auk Forest Monastery
Mawlamyine, Mon State, Myanmar
Tel: (95) 57-22853

International Buddhasāsana Meditation Centre (Pa-Auk Tawya Branch)
Thilawar Road (near Kyaik-Khauk Pagoda)
Payargon Village, Than Lyin Township, Yangon
Tel: (95) 56-21927

Personal Contacts
Mr & Mrs Yip Seng Foo
No.4 West May Kha No.3 Street
Mayangone Township, Yangon
E-mail: bluestar@mptmail.net.mm

Daw Amy (Ms. Amy)
66 A, Sayarsan Road, Bahan Township, Yangon
Tel: (95) 1-548129/ (95) 1-556355

U Aung Pyone (Mr. Aung Pyone)
No (32), Kwet Thit St, Yay Kyaw (7th Qtr, near YMBA)
Pazundaung Township, Yangon
Tel: (95) 1-293847
E-mail: uap@myanmar.com.mm
International Contact Information

China
Mdm. Liang Xinxin
Guangzhou, Peoples Republic of China
Tel: (86) 20-84232438
E-mail: liyuwen8888@163.com

Japan
Myanmar Theravāda Buddhist Association Attention: Ko Ye Tun, Tokyo, Japan
Tel: (81) 90-22209886

Singapore
Cakkavala Meditation Centre
E-mail: cakkavala_sg@yahoo.com.sg
Tel: (65) 98488384 – Dr Ng Wai Chong
Visuddha Meditation Centre
107 Jalan Langgar Bedok, Singapore 468559
Tel: (65) 90101663
E-mail: visuddha77@yahoo.com.sg
Teoh Soon Seng
E-mail: teohss@singnet.com.sg

Sri Lanka
Nā Uyana Āranya (monastery)
Pansiyagama 60554
Tel: (94) 37-5677328/ (94) 66-2224936
E-mail: nauyana@gmail.com
Dhammika Ashrama (nunnery)
Angulgamuwa, Pansiyagama 60554
Tel: (94) 37-5671258
E-mail: dhammikashrama@gmail.com
International Contact Information (Cont.)

Taiwan
Buddhist Hong Shi College
No. 121-5 Ta-Tung Village, Guan-Yin
Tao Yuan, Taiwan, Republic of China

United States of America
Roland Win
15 Palmdale Ave, Daly City, CA 94015
Tel: (1) 650-994-3750
E-mail: RolandRexEntps@aol.com

Brian Johnson
29 Anton Way, Novato, CA 94945
Tel: (1) 415-328-1709
E-mail: upasako@paauk.org

Kim McLaughlin
568 Arlington Ave, Berkeley, CA 94707
Tel: (1) 510-527-7625
E-mail: kimmcl@pacbell.net

Other Addresses

Bangkok
Embassy of the Union of Myanmar
132 Sathorn Nua Road, Bangkok, 10500
Tel: (66) 2-233-2237/ (66) 2-234-4698
Embassy Business Hours:
9:00-11:30 am and 1:00-3:00 pm, Monday – Friday

Revised April 8, 2005
Index

This index contains significant references only. References are listed by page numbers, except in those instances where references to appendices and footnotes are included. References to footnotes are included only for those pages where the term itself does not occur in the main body of the text. References appearing in singular form may also refer to the term in its plural form (and vice versa). All Pāli words have been italicized, except for a few of the more commonly used Pāli terms, such as Dhamma, samādhi, kamma, etc.

A

Abhidhamma, 12, 53
absorption/absorption concentration, 20, 22, 26, 44, See also jhāna; final five insight-knowledges access concentration, 21, 23, 25, 26, 30 actions, 13, 34, 35, 45
as Right Action, 8, 9, 15, 16 aeon, 34, 63, See also world-cycle ageing, 1, 2, 32, 36 aggregates, four/five. See four/five aggregates anāgāmi, 46
Ānanda, Venerable, 15
ānāpāna/ānāpānasati, 22, 23, See also mindfulness of breathing anger, 24, 46, See also hatred; aversion animal realm/kingdom, 63, See footnote 3/p. 45 appreciative joy (as Divine Abode), 24 arahant, 7, 46, See also enlightenment; Nibbāna attainment of arahantship, 7, 12, 35, 36, 42, 46, 47 arahatta, 46 arising and passing-away, knowledge of, 40, 41, See also sixteen insight knowledges
ascetics, five, 1, 8 asura/asura realm, 63, See footnote 3/p. 45 attachment. See clinging as imperfection, 38
to rites and rituals (as fetter), 43, 45
INDEX

aversion, 4, See also hatred; anger awareness, 20, 23, See also mindfulness

B becoming, 32, 36 Benares, 1

bhikkhunī. See footnote 3/p. 7 bhikkhus, 1, 53, See footnote 3/p. 7, footnote 2/p. 45 being addressed by the Buddha, 1, 3, 4, 6, 8, 11, 20, 32, 35, 47 birth, 1, 2, 32, 34, 36, 47 modes of, 5
bliss, 7, 44, See also happiness
as imperfection, 38
Bodhi Tree, 1, 12
body, 7, 8, 13, 25, 26, 30, 33, 35, See also materiality base/faculty/consciousness, 16, 32 mindfulness of, 19 thirty-two parts of, 19, 24 boundless consciousness (as immaterial jhāna), 24 boundless space (as immaterial jhāna), 24 Brahma Realms, 46, 63, See footnote 2/p. 43. See also fine-material realm Buddha, 1, 7, 8, 12, 21, 28, 33, 38, 42, 45, 46, 47, 49 quotations from, 1, 3, 4, 5, 6, 8–12, 15, 20, 32, 35, 37, 46, 47 recollection of, 24
Buddhaghosa, Bhadantācariya, 13

C

calm, 15, See also tranquility cause and effect, 33, 36, See also dependent origination; kamma change, 2, 11, See also impermanence change-of-lineage, knowledge of, 42, 43, See also final five insight-knowledges characteristics of the five aggregates. See three characteristics of the four elements, 25, 26 clinging, 2, 4, 32, 36, See also five aggregates colour (as element), 29

88 compactness, illusion of, 29 compassion, 7, 12, 25
as Divine Abode, 24
conceit (as fetter), 43, 46 concentration, 9, 10, 13, 15, 22, 25, 26, 33, 47, See also samādhi absorption, 20, 22, See also jhāna access, 21, 23, 25, 26, 30 as Right Concentration, 8, 9, 19, 20, 21 sign of. See nimitta conditioned existence, 3, 41, See footnote 1/p. 7 conduct, 16 confidence, 10, 45
as imperfection, 38
conformity, knowledge of, 42, 43, See also final five insight-knowledges consciousness, 2, 3, 7, 11, 20, 32, 34, 35, 44, See also five aggregates; mentality analysis of, 30, 31 arising in conjunction with the sense-bases, 37 boundless (as immaterial jhāna), 24 contact, 32, 35
craving, 32, 35, See also Four Noble Truths: Second Noble Truth cessation of. See Four Noble Truths: Third Noble Truth for existence/non-existence, 3, 4 for fine-material/immaterial existence (as fetter), 43, 46 for sensual pleasures, 3 danger, knowledge of, 40, See also sixteen insight-knowledges death, 2, 6, 7, 9, 32, 36 recolletion of, 24 defilements, 10, 13, 35, 42, 43, 47, See also five hindrances; ten fetters dependent origination, 32–36, 37, 40, 46, 49 desire for deliverance, knowledge of, 40, See also sixteen insight-knowledges despair, 2, 32, 36

deva/deva realms, 12, 63, See footnote 1/p. 43. See also heaven Dhamma, 1, 9, 12, 28, 33, 45, 53
INDEX

Wheel of, 1 direct knowledges. See higher powers disenchantment, 11, 15, 41
   as insight-knowledge, 40, See also sixteen insight-knowledges dispassion, 11, 15, 25
Dispensation, 1, 12 dissolution, knowledge of, 40, 41, See also sixteen insightknowledges
Divine Abodes, Four, 24 doubt
   as fetter, 43
   as hindrance. See footnote 3/p. 10 purification by overcoming, 13, 32–36 drinking (alcohol), 17, See also Appendix V/VI drugs, recreational, 17, See also Appendix V/VI

E

ear base/faculty/consciouisness, 16, 32, 37 earth element, 25, 29
effort
   as imperfection, 38
   as Right Effort, 8, 9, 19 eight or ten precepts for Theravāda nuns, 16 eight precepts, 16
Eightfold Noble Path. See Noble Eightfold Path enlightenment, 1, 8, 12, 42, 43, 44, 49, See also Nibbāna four stages of, 42, 45–46, See footnote 2/p. 20
   (1) stream-entry path and fruition, 45
   (2) once-return path and fruition, 45
   (3) non-return path and fruition, 46
   (4) arahant path and fruition, 7, 12, 35, 42, 46 equanimity, 25
   as Divine Abode, 24
   as imperfection, 38
   as insight-knowledge, 40
   as jhāna factor, 20, 21 existence. See realms of existence (thirty-one) conditioned. See conditioned existence craving for, 3, 4, 43, 46

90
INDEX

wheel of existence, 42 extinction. See footnote 3/p. 6. See also cessation eye base/faculty/consciouisness, 16, 32, 37

F

faith, 24, 25 fear, 46
feeling, 2, 3, 4, 11, 20, 30, 32, 35, See also five aggregates; mentality pleasant, unpleasant or neutral. See footnote 2/p. 3 fetters, ten. 42-46, For individual fetters, see ten fetters final five insight-knowledges, 42–44, See also path/path knowledge; fruition/fruition knowledge; Nibbāna; Appendix III final Nibbāna, 36, 46, See footnote 5/p. 7. See also Parinibbāna fine-material jhānas. See footnote 1/p. 20 fine-material realm/existence, 43, 46, 63, See footnote 1/p. 35
fire element, 25, 29
five aggregates, 1–3, 6, 7, 11, 20, 23, 35, 36, 37, 47 subject to clinging, 2 five hindrances, 10, 11, 20 five lower/five higher fetters, 43, 46 five or eight precepts for laypersons, 16 five senses, 46, See also six sense-bases flavour (as element), 29 forest dwelling, 53 forest monastery, 49 formations, 37, 40, 41, See also mental/volitional formations Four Divine Abodes, 24 four elements, 19, 25, 26, 29
four-elements meditation, 22, 25, 26, 30, 49
four lower realms. See four woeful realms four mental aggregates, 2, See also mentality Four Noble Truths, 1–9, 10, 12, 20, 27, 28, 33, 42, 46, 49
(1) First Noble Truth, 1–3, 9, 12, 27, 31, 32
(2) Second Noble Truth, 1, 3–6, 9, 12, 27, 32, 33
(3) Third Noble Truth, 1, 6–8, 9, 12, 27, 32, 35, 36
(4) Fourth Noble Truth, 1, 8–9, 12, 27 four protective meditations, 24 four requisites, 16
INDEX

four woeful realms, 45, 63, See footnote 1/p. 6 fruition/fruition knowledge, 12, 38, 42, 44, 45–46, 49, See also final five insight knowledges future lives, 34, 36, 38, 41

G

good friend, 7 greed, hatred and delusion, 44, See footnote 3/p. 6. See also non-greed, non-hatred and non-delusion grief, 2, 32, 36

H

happiness, 8, 11, 12, 15
as jhāna factor, 20, 21
hatred, 4, See also anger; aversion heart-element, 29 heartwood, 47 heaven/heavenly, 6, 17, See also deva/deva realms hell/hell realm, 5, 63, See footnote 3/p. 45 higher powers (mundane). See footnote 1/p. 31. See also psychic power hindrances. See five hindrances holy life, 7, 46, 47, See also bhikkhus householder's life, cares of, 50 human realm/being/birth, 5, 12, 34, 45, 63, See footnote 1/p. 43 hungry ghosts. See footnote 3/p. 45. See also peta/peta realm ignorance, 2, 4, 5, 7, 28, 32, 35, 42, 47, See also dependent origination as fetter, 43, 46

I

ill-will
as fetter, 43, 45, 46
as hindrance. See footnote 3/p. 10 immaterial jhānas, 24, 63 immaterial realm/existence, 43, 46, 63, See footnote 1/p. 35 imperfections of insight, ten, 38. For individual imperfections, see ten imperfections of insight

impermanence, 3, 37, 38, See also three characteristics indeterminate (state of consciousness), 20, 31 initial application (of the mind), 20, 21, See also jhāna factors insight, 11, 25, 41
as imperfection, 38
insight-knowledges, sixteen. See sixteen insight-knowledges intention (as Right Intention), 8, 9, 27 intoxicants (use of), 17
Isipatana, 1, 8, 46

J

jhāna. See footnote 1/p. 20. See also concentration as fine-material jhānas. See footnote 1/p. 20 as immaterial jhānas, 24, 63 as Right Concentration. See Noble Eightfold Path as the four jhānas, 20, 23, 30, 63 benefits of, 25
jhāna factors, 21, 30, See also Appendix I, Table 1 jhāna mastery, 22, 23, See also Appendix I, Table 2 limitations of, 35
joy, 15, 21, See also rapture
as imperfection, 38

K

kalāpas. See rūpa kalāpas/kalāpas kamma, 32, 34, 36. See also volitional formations kappa. See world-cycle kāsiṇas, ten/white, 24, 25 knowing and seeing, 15, 42 knowledge as direct/experiential knowledge, 8, 11
as insight-knowledge, 33, See also sixteen insight-knowledges knowledge & vision of the way, purification by, 13, 40–41 knowledge & vision, purification by, 13, 42–47 kuṭis, 54, See also Appendix V/VI
INDEX

L

lamentation, 2, 32, 36
latent tendencies. See footnote 1/p. 35 Law/law, 3, 28, 38, See also Dhamma laypersons/laypeople/lay practitioners, 16, 49, 54, See also Appendix V/VI liberation/final liberation, 12, 42, 44, 45, 47 life-continuum, 44 life-faculty element, 29 light, 26
as imperfection, 38
as kāsiṇa, 24 of wisdom, 23, 25 livelihood (as Right Livelihood), 8, 9, 15, 16 loathsomeness meditation, 24 loving-kindness (as Divine Abode and protective meditation), 24 lust, 46, See also craving

M

Mahā Moggallāna, Venerable, 7 male or female sex-element, 30 materiality, 2, 7, 11, 23, 25, 26, 29–31, 36, 37, See also five aggregates as elements, 29, 30
as rūpa kalāpas, 26, 29 seeing ultimate materiality, 30, 31, 33, 41, 49 meditation practice, 22, 33, 49, 53 sitting/walking, 22 meditation subjects. See samatha subjects; vipassanā; mindfulness of breathing; four-elements meditation; analysis of materiality; analysis of mentality; dependent origination mental factors, 2, 7, 21, 30, 31 mental formations, 2, 11, 30, See also five aggregates; mentality mentality, 2, 7, 23, 29–31, 36, 37, See also four aggregates; five aggregates seeing ultimate mentality, 31, 33, 41, 49 mentality-materiality, 32, 35, 40, See also five aggregates Middle Way, 8, See also Noble Eightfold Path mind, 10, 13, 19, 21, 23, 27, 30, 31, 33, 35, 41, 42, 44, 47, See also consciousness; mentality; mindfulness base/faculty/consciouisness, 16, 32 liberation of, 11, 47
INDEX

purification of, 13, 22–26, 36, 39, 40 mindfulness, 20, 21, See footnote 3/p. 19
as imperfection, 38
as Right Mindfulness, 8, 9, 19 of breathing, 22, 23, 49 of mind-objects, 20 of the body/of feelings/of the mind, 19 monastery rules, 16, See also Appendix VI Monastic Disciplinary Code, 16 money, monastics and, 17, 68, 69, 79 monks, 16, 17, 53, 54, See also bhikkhus; Appendix V/VI morality/moral conduct, 9, 10, 13, 15–18, 49, See also sīla

N
neither-perception-nor-non-perception (as immaterial jhāna), 24
Nibbāna, 6–8, 12, 13, 17, 32, 38–47, See also final Nibbāna nimitta, 23
Noble Eightfold Path, 8–9, 45
(1) Right View, 8, 9, 27
(2) Right Intention, 8, 9, 27
(3) Right Speech, 8, 9, 15, 16
(4) Right Action, 8, 9, 15, 16
(5) Right Livelihood, 8, 9, 15, 16
(6) Right Effort, 8, 9, 19
(7) Right Mindfulness, 8, 9, 19
(8) Right Concentration, 8, 9, 19, 20, 21
noble one, 20, 43, 49, See footnote 2/p. 45 Noble Truth of Suffering. See Four Noble Truths: First Noble Truth of the Cessation of Suffering. See Four Noble Truths: Third Noble Truth of the Origin of Suffering. See Four Noble Truths: Second Noble Truth of the Path Leading to the Cessation of Suffering. See Four Noble Truths: Fourth Noble Truth

95
INDEX

non-attachment, 8, See also attachment non-existence, craving for, 3, 4 non-greed, non-hatred and non-delusion. See footnote 2/p. 19. See also greed, hatred and delusion non-return/non-returner, 46, See also enlightenment; Nibbāna non-self, 11, 37, 38, See also self (sense of); three characteristics nothingness (as immaterial jhāna), 24 novices, 16, 17, 53, See also Appendix V/VI nuns, 16, 17, 54, See also Appendix V/VI nutritive essence (as element), 29

O

odour (as element), 29
once-return (path and fruition), 45, See also enlightenment; Nibbāna one-pointedness of mind (as jhāna factor), 20

P

Pa-Auk Forest Monastery, 12, 16, 22, 24, 49–54 location, services, how to get here, what to bring, etc. See Appendix V rules of the monastery. See Appendix VI Pa-Auk Tawya Sayadaw, Venerable, 53–55, See also Sayadaw pain, 2, 32, 36, See also suffering Pāli Texts/Canon, 12, 53, 54
paññā, 9, 10, 13, 27, 35, See also wisdom Parinibbāna, 7, 8, 36, See also Nibbāna past life/lives, 34, 36, 38, 41 path leading to the cessation of suffering. See Noble Eightfold Path Path of Purification, The. See Visuddhimagga Path, Noble Eightfold. See Noble Eightfold Path path/path knowledge, 38, 42, 44, 45, 46, 49, See also final five insight-knowledges
patience/persistence, 10 Pātimokkha, 16
peace, 8, 12, 28, 44 perception, 2, 11, 30, 31, 38, 41, See also five aggregates; mentality Perfectly Enlightened One, 1, 46, See also Buddha

96
INDEX

personality view (as fetter), 43, 45 petā/petā realm, 63, See footnote 3/p. 45. See also hungry ghosts phenomena, physical and mental, 20, See also five aggregates pleasure, 3, 21, See also sensual pleasures precepts, 16, 50 protective meditations, four, 24 psychic power, 33, See also higher powers purification
   benefits of, 17 fourfold, 16 gradual, 10, 42 of livelihood, 16 seven stages of, 13, For individual stages, see seven stages of purification
purity, perfect, 46

R

rains retreat, 53, 54 rapture, 15, 20
   as jhāna factor, 21 realms of existence (thirty-one), 3, 5, 34, 46, 63, See also four woeful realms; sensual realm; fine-material realm; immaterial realm; human realm; heaven; deva realms; Brahma Realms; existence rebirth, 3, 4, 34, 35, 45, See also birth cycle of, 4, 5, 8, See also saṁsāra recollection of death, 24 recollection of the Buddha, 24 reflection, knowledge of, 40, See also sixteen insight-knowledges remorse, 15
   as hindrance. See footnote 3/p. 10 requisites, four, 16
restlessness
   as fetter, 43, 46
   as hindrance. See footnote 3/p. 10 restraint of the sense faculties, 16 with regard to conduct, 16
INDEX

reviewing, knowledge of, 42, 44, See also final five insight-knowledges Right View, Right Intention, Right Speech, Right Action, Right Livelihood, Right Effort, Right Mindfulness or Right Concentration. See Noble Eightfold Path; threefold training rūpa kalāpas/kalāpas, 26, 29, 30, 41

S

sakadāgāmi, 45
samādhi, 9, 10, 13, 19, See also concentration sāmaṇera. See novices samatha, 10, 33, 36, 40, 49, See also samādhi samatha subjects/practices, 21, 22, 23–25, 26, 30, See also Appendix I, Table 3 satīsāra, 4, 5, 6, 7, 41, 43, 47, See also rebirth Sāriputta, Venerable, 7
Saṅgha, 45
Sayadaw. See footnote 1/p. 25, footnote 3/p. 44. See also Pa-Auk Tawya Sayadaw, Venerable sceptical doubt
as fetter, 43, 45
as hindrance. See footnote 3/p. 10
Sekhiya (training) rules, 16 self (sense of), 2, 4, 6, 11, 26, 39, See also non-self self-annihilation, 4 self-indulgence, 8, See also Middle Way selflessness, 8
self-mortification, 8, See also Middle Way sensation, physical, 3, See also feeling sense-bases, six. See six sense-bases sense-objects (five/six), 37, 46
sensual desire, 24
as fetter, 43, 45, 46
as hindrance. See footnote 3/p. 10 sensual pleasures, 3, 4, 8, 20 sensual realm, 46, 63, See footnote 1/p. 43 serenity meditation. See samatha seven stages of purification, 13, See also Appendix III
(1) of virtue, 16–18
INDEX

(2) of mind, 22–26
(3) of view, 29–31
(4) by overcoming doubt, 32–36
(5) by knowledge & vision of what is & what is not path, 37–39
(6) by knowledge & vision of the way, 40–41
(7) by knowledge & vision, 42–47 sex-element, male or female, 30 sickness, 1, 2

sights

  as sense object, 30, 37
  craving for, 3

sīla, 9, 10, 13, 15–18, 34
six sense-bases, 32, 35, 37, See footnote 2/p. 3 six sense-objects, 37

sixteen insight-knowledges, 40, 41, 49, See also Appendix III

  (1) analysing mentality-materiality, (2) discerning cause and condition, (3) comprehension, (4) arising and passing-away, (5) dissolution, (6) terror, (7) danger, (8) disenchantment, (9) desire for deliverance, (10) reflection, (11) equanimity towards formations, (12) conformity, (13) change-of-lineage, (14) the path, (15) fruition and (16) reviewing.

  *For knowledges 1-3, see footnote 1/p. 40
  *For knowledges 4-11, see pages 40-41
  *For knowledges 12-16, see final five insight-knowledges skeleton meditation, 24 sloth and torpor (as hindrance). See footnote 3/p. 10 smells

  as sense object, 37
  craving for, 3

smoking. See Appendix V/VI sorrow, 2, 32, 36 sotāpatti, 45

sounds

  as sense object, 30, 37
  craving for, 3

speech, 13, 16, 35 as Right Speech, 8, 9, 15, 16 wholesome/unwholesome, 34 stream-entry/stream-enterer, 45, See also enlightenment; Nibbāna suffering, 5, 6, 11, 33, 34, 35, 42, See also Four Noble Truths: First Noble Truth; three characteristics cause/origin of. See Four Noble Truths: Second Noble Truth;

INDEX

dependent origination
cessation of. See Four Noble Truths: Third Noble Truth;
dependent origination path leading to the cessation of. See Four Noble Truths: Fourth Noble Truth; threefold training supramundane, 44 sustained application (of the mind), 20, 21, See also jhāna factors Sutta, 12, 53

T

tastes (craving for), 3 Tathāgata, 8, See also Buddha teaching/teaching methods, 49, 51, See also Four Noble Truths; Dhamma
certainty in, 10 ten fetters
(1) personality view, (2) sceptical doubt, (3) attachment to rites and rituals, (4) sensual desire, (5) ill-will, (6) craving for fine-material existence, (7) craving for immaterial existence, (8) conceit, (9) restlessness, (10) ignorance. See pages 42-46
ten imperfections of insight
(1) powerful light, (2) insight, (3) joy, (4) tranquillity, (5) bliss,
(6) confidence, (7) effort, (8) mindfulness, (9) equanimity, (10) attachment. See page 38
ten kasiṇas/white kasiṇa, 24, 25 terror, knowledge of, 40, See also sixteen insight-knowledges Theravāda, 16, 50
thirty-one realms, 5, 46, 63 thirty-two parts of the body, 19, 24 thought, 34, 46, See also mentality
craving for, 3
three characteristics, 11, 37, 38, See also five aggregates threefold training/three trainings, 9–12, 13, 49 Tipiṭaka, 12 tongue base/faculty/consciuosness, 16, 32 touch (craving for), 3
INDEX

training, 15, 49, See also threefold training tranquillity, 20, 25
    as imperfection, 38
transparent-element, 29 Truths, Four Noble. See Four Noble Truths twelve characteristics (of the four elements), 25, 26

U

unchastity, 16
unconditioned, 47, See also conditioned existence; unformed element unformed element, 7, 41, 44, See also Nibbāna unwholesome (thoughts, speech, actions, states of mind, etc.), 10, 19, 20, 31, 34, 45, See footnote 1/p. 32, footnote 2/p. 36. See also wholesome urgency (sense of), 24

V

vassa. See rains retreat view as Right View, 8, 9, 27 as wrong view, 27, 45
    purification of, 13, 29–31
Vinaya, 12, 53
vipassanā, 11, 22, 23, 25, 35, 36, 37, 40, 44, 49, See also paññā; insight meditation virtue, 17, 18, 47
    purification of, 13, 16–18
Visuddhimagga, 13, 16, 17, 21, 31
volitional formations, 32, 35, See also kamma

W

water element, 25, 29
what is & what is not path, purification by knowledge & vision of, 13, 37–39 white kasiṭṭha, 25
INDEX

wholesome (thoughts, speech, actions, states of mind, etc.), 19, 20, 31, 34, 36, See footnote 1/p. 32. See also unwholesome wind element, 25, 29 wisdom, 9, 10, 13, 27, See also paññā woeful realms, four. See four woeful realms world-cycle, 5, See also aeon worldling, 8, 43 wrong intention, 27, See also Right Intention wrong view, 27, 45, See also Right View